Chotiner, Given White House Aid, Denies Using Influence

Lawyer's Action Not Improper, Hagerty Says

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Murray M. Chotiner, who was Vice President Nixon's 1952 campaign manager, testified today he got help from the White House in connection with some private law cases.

He said the help amounted to calls put in at his request by two aides to President Eisenhower, Maxwell Rabb and Charles F. Willis Jr., to check on the status of some pending cases, or to arrange for Chotiner to see government officials.

There was no influence-swinging, Chotiner told the Senate Investigations subcommittee. He testified he never tried to make use of his connections with Nixon or anyone else in the government.

James C. Hagerty, Eisenhower's press secretary, was asked by reporters whether he felt there was anything improper about Chotiner getting in touch with Rabb and Willis.

"Not the slightest," Hagerty replied.

Chotiner Lost Both Cases

Hagerty said he had checked with Rabb, who is Eisenhower's adviser on minority problems, and Willis, who formerly dealt in job patronage matters and now is with the W. R. Grace Co. in New York. They told him, Hagerty said, that the cases Chotiner mentioned to them had to do with airline matters.

Hagerty added that in both instances, Chotiner's side eventually lost the cases.

The Senate investigation has had nothing to do with airline matters.

The senators called Chotiner before them after getting testimony that he had represented, as a lawyer, some of the persons they are investigating in connection with charges of crookedness in contracting for military uniforms.

Chotiner is a Beverly Hills lawyer who has long been prominent in California Republican politics.

He was called specifically in connection with the subcommittee's inquiry into alleged payoffs by Herman Kravitz, an Atlantic City, N.J., garment maker, to purchasing agents for the armed forces.

Florida Lawyer Balks

An accountant for Kravitz has testified he understood the garment maker hired Chotiner in the belief that he could swing political influence in Washington.

Chotiner testified he wasn't altogether clear why Kravitz had hired him, since he already had several other lawyers, but that "in all candor I gained the impression" that he was recommended by William A. Parzow, a Miami Beach, Fla., lawyer.

Parzow was called to the stand. He refused to say whether he had introduced clients to Chotiner, received fees for doing so, or had brought Kravitz and Kravitz's father to Washington to meet Chotiner.

Chotiner said he received fees of $6,000 from Kravitz and $1,000 from Marco Reginelli, a garment industry figure described by subcommittee counsel Robert F. Kennedy as "the top hoodlum in the Philadelphia and New Jersey area."

He insisted, however, his services to these clients were solely professional and had nothing to do with any influence-peddling through Nixon—whose campaign manager he was in 1952 — or anyone else in official Washington.

33 Billion Arms Fund Approved By House Group

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee voted today to give $33,635,066,000 in new money to the Defense Department for the year beginning July 1.

It said the military emphasis for the new fiscal year will be on airpower and new weapons to be brought forward "at an increasing rate."

The total recommended is $1,741,832,374 more than Congress appropriated for the fiscal year ending this June 30.

However, it is $512,784,000 less than President Eisenhower asked in his budget last January and in a supplemental request last month. The committee said more than half of this reduction was simply on "paper" and would not affect actual military programs.

"Barring unforeseen developments, the amount appropriated is generally adequate to fully implement our projected military requirements," the committee said, "and will enable the (Defense) Department to give the country an increasingly strong and well-balanced force."

Counting carryover funds, the department would have $46,233,000,000 during the new fiscal year.

Military manpower was estimated at 2,865,000 at the end of the new fiscal year, as compared with 2,820,100 next June 30.

The committee earmarked $1,647,000,000 of the new funds for research and development, saying a comprehensive plan of scientific work is needed to prevent Russia from overcoming "our present marginal superiority" is development of advanced weapons and equipment.

Retired General Now One-Striper

PROVIDENCE, R.I., May 3 (AP)—A one-star general became a one-stripe enlisted man in the Air Force Reserve here today.

Brig. Gen. Bruce Johnson of Warwick, R.I., who was forced by law to go on the retired list on his 60th birthday last Monday, wanted to stay active in the reserve, and the only way he could do so was as an enlisted man. At stake is reserve pay, for which he needs four more years of service.

So today he reported to the Providence Air Reserve Center here and was sworn in as an airman third class—the equivalent of private first class—by Lt. Col. John P. McBryde, the center commandant.

Weather Delays A-Bomb Blast

KWAJALEIN ATOLL, Mid-Pacific, May 4—(Friday)—(INS)—The opening shot of a significant new series of American nuclear tests was put off today until tomorrow because of bad weather in the Central Pacific.

The curtain-raiser, an atomic bomb experimental blast, had been scheduled for sunrise this morning.

Dawn Saturday was tentatively set as the new time for the atomic shot planned as a forerunner of the "big show" scheduled for next Tuesday when the U. S. will attempt for the first time to drop a massive hydrogen bomb from a plane.

The current series of tests is rated the most important in years due to Russian boasts of having surpassed America in certain phases of nuclear weapons development.

Defense Rests As Graham Declines To Take Stand

DENVER, May 3 (AP)—Attorneys for John Gilbert Graham, charged with murder in an airliner explosion last Nov. 1 which killed 44 persons, took less than three hours today to complete their case.

A statement by Graham said he did not want to testify, he did not want his 22-year-old wife, Gloria, to testify, and that he did not want a psychiatrist called as a defense witness.

Four psychiatrists reported to the court before the trial that they found Graham sane.

The prosecution waived its rights to rebuttal, placing the case at the state of final arguments after 16 days of trial.

Judge Joseph M. McDonald dismissed the jury until 11:30 a.m. tomorrow.

The defense called only eight witnesses during the two hours and 44 minutes which it took to present its case. Three of them testified Graham was in Denver last Oct. 22, which a country storekeeper fixed as the probable date the defendant purchased dynamite from him.

The 24 - year - old Graham is charged specifically with killing his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 55, by placing a homemade dynamite bomb in the luggage she took aboard the airliner.

The witnesses who testified Graham was in Denver the evening of Oct. 22 were his parents-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Elson, and Mrs. Helen West, a neighbor of the Grahams.

Charles S. Vigil, one of the court-appointed defense lawyers, said in a two-minute statement to the jury opening the defense that the state's case against Graham rests on "a chain of circumstances."

Weeks, Mitchell Question Need For Credit Curb

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Two of President Eisenhower's Cabinet officers today reported the nation's economy is continuing to boom, and questioned the need of applying anti-inflationary brakes.

Secretary of Commerce Weeks, reporting a new record high for personal income and a continuing high rate for the gross national product, said he still has a "cheery optimism" about the economic outlook despite soft spots in automobiles and home building.

Weeks said employment figures due to come out soon will show a substantial increase in the number of workers with jobs. The March employment figure, issued last month, was 63,078,000.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell questioned the need of last month's credit-tightening action by the Federal Reserve Board, saying:

"I don't happen to believe there is an inflationary trend."

Possible Handicap

Weeks put it this way:

"In view of the tight money situation today the raise in the Federal Reserve discount rate for lending might prove to be a handicap to business expansion and the economy, but in the long run I have confidence that the economy will still move forward."

The Federal Reserve Board raised its bank lending rate last month to the highest level in more than 20 years. This tended to raise borrowing rates all along the line.

Weeks said the action may require "a close watch."

Both Weeks and Mitchell, at separate news conferences, expressed concern about the possibility of an increase in steel prices as a result of new wage contract negotiations soon to begin. Weeks recalled that he has been urging all industries "not to charge all that the traffic will bear," although he said he recognizes that they must make a profit to stay in business.

Production, Income High

Weeks reported that the gross national product—the total output of goods and services—is running at about the same annual rate as the record 399-billion-dollar-a-year rate it reached in the first three months of this year.

Weeks also reported that personal income, mainly from wages and salaries, rose in March to a new high annual rate of 315 billion dollars. This was an increase of 1½ billion dollars over February.

Price On His Head

NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 3 (AP)—The British today offered a 10,000 pounds—$28,000—reward for a tip to the whereabouts of the reputed leader of Eoka, the rebel underground.

Posters will be plastered all over Cyprus tomorrow with the picture of the fugitive, George Theodorou Grivas, a former colonel in the Greek army.

Arab Nations, Israel Agree To Cease-Fire

Dag Hammarskjold Heads Home By Way Of Cairo And Rome

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 3 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold came up today with three more Palestine cease-fire agreements. Aimed to muzzle the guns on both sides of the frontiers, they were reached by Israel and three of her Arab neighbors — Syria, Jordan and Lebanon.

The U.N. secretary general, who broke the ice with an Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire pact in the Gaza area effective April 18, announced these results of his five-weeks old Middle East peace mission in a preliminary report from Jerusalem to the Security Council.

Heading home now by way of Cairo and Rome, he said the agreements were unconditional, with a reservation as to self-defense. The right of self-defense is held by all nations under the U.N. Charter.

1948 Pledges Reinforced

The new agreements are intended to reinforce cease-fire pledges made by Israel and her Arab neighbors in the armistice agreements that ended the Palestine war of 1948.

Hammarskjold told the Security Council conditions in the Gaza area, long a center of bloodshed and tension, have "considerably improved as a result of strict orders" issued by the Israeli and Egyptian governments.

"Negotiations for similar reciprocal assurances unconditionally to observe a cease-fire, with a reservation as to self-defense, have been conducted with the parties to the other three armistice agreements," he said. "The negotiations have in all cases been concluded with positive results. . . .

Council To Hear Report

"The cease-fire I have aimed at under my mandate from the Security Council is one governed by a reaffirmation by the governments, given to the United Nations, to comply unconditionally with the fundamental clause of the various armistice agreements and establishes anew the legal situation on which the armistice regime as to be founded."

He will make a full report to the Council at a meeting expected to be called by Council President Joza Brilej of Yugoslavia late next week.

Church Rejects Foundation Plan

MINNEAPOLIS, May 3 (AP) — Methodists today turned thumbs down on a plan for setting up a national foundation to seek gifts for the church.

Delegates to the church's policy-making General Conference voted down the plan, after a series of speeches on the floor opposing it.

The Rev. K. Morgan Edwards, of Pasadena, Calif., said it would "burn over the ground" and leave only "a scorched earth" of financial resources for local church institutions and agencies.

The proposal for "the Methodist Church Foundation, Inc.", to cultivate legacies and other gifts, was drawn up by a committee headed by Bishop Charles W. Brashares, of Chicago.

Chester M. Alter, of Denver, said the foundation would mean assigning to a "topside organization" a job individual church boards and agencies could do.

Paul James, of Des Moines, a committee member presenting the proposal, said the foundation would not compete with various church agencies but "would cooperate with them."

France To Sell More Warplanes To Israel

PARIS, May 3 (AP) — A well-informed source said today France has agreed to sell a second dozen Mystere IV jet fighters to Israel.

Soviet MIG15 jet fighters already are in the hands of the Egyptians, Israel's best-armed foe.

A French proposal for a universal arms embargo in the Middle East is being discussed by foreign ministers assembled for a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council which opens tomorrow.

The Mysteres, one of the standard NATO fighter planes, are built in France. The United States buys up the whole production for the use of its European allies, and Washington's consent was therefore necessary to remove the 24 jets from current production.

Wife, Mother-In-Law, Two Small Children Die In Murder Spree

WAUSAU, Wis., May 3 (AP) — A berserk 37-year-old man stabbed his wife, mother-in-law, and two small children to death in a rural home today, then was captured after attacking two other persons with a knife.

He was identified by Sheriff Myron Mueller of Marathon County as Russell Monegar, who lives five miles southwest of here in north-central Wisconsin.

The sheriff said Monegar had signed a statement admitting the slayings but declaring "I don't know why I did it." Monegar faces a first degree murder charge, punishable in Wisconsin by life imprisonment.

5-Month-Old Baby Slain

The dead were Monegar's wife, Ophelia, 33; her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Long, about 56, who lived next door; Iris Kohlbeck, 5 months, Monegar's niece, and Iris' half-brother, Donald Garvin, 8. The sheriff identified all of the principals as Indians.

Sheriff Mueller said that Monegar's daughter, Sandra, came home from school about midafternoon to find her mother's blood-smeared, lifeless body on the floor of the living room. The horrified younster ran to a nearby grocery store where the proprietor, Mrs. Lillian Carter was working.

Mrs. Carter went to the Monegar home where she found Mrs. Monegar's body and the bodies of Mrs. Long and the Garvin boy a short distance from the home in the yard. She looked through a window and saw the body of the Kohlbeck baby on a bed.

Tavern Owner Stabbed

The mother of the slain children was in Wisconsin Rapids shopping. She had left them in the care of Mrs. Long. The tavern episode occurred in the Page Tavern, located some distance from the Monegar home but on the same highway.

Mrs. Anges Page, the tavern owner, and William Slatoski, apparently a patron, were the victims of the stabbing there. They were taken to a hospital. The full extent of their injuries was not known.

Monegary, the sheriff said, emerged from the tavern, climbed into a truck which was parked in the yard, and drove away. Two highway patrolmen arrested him some 10 miles away.

Moroccan Riots Continue; Death Toll Reaches 40

MARRAKECH, Morocco, Friday May 4 (AP) — Moroccan mobs wreaked vengeance on pro-French Moslems again yesterday in a riot of massacre and pillage.

French Foreign Legionnaires and Moroccan troops, pouring into the torn city, restored a semblance of order. But there still were sporadic outbursts of violence.

About 40 Moroccans perished during the reign of mobsters wielding knives, axes, guns and torches. Some victims were burned alive.

Authorities said five members of the mobs were killed in gun fights. About 20 persons were injured. Thirty homes or stores were burned.

Mobs paraded through streets dragging battered corpses or hauling them in wheelbarrows.

Most of the mob's rage was directed at supporters of the former pasha (governor) of Marrakech, Thami el Glaoui, who once sided with the French. He died of cancer last year but resentment against him burned deep.

Among the victims were some of Glaoui's bodyguards, former kaids or chiefs, a Moslem leader, the former president of the local Chamber of Commerce, and lesser tribal officials among the Berbers whom Glaoui ruled.

Authorities said some private grudges were also settled under the cloak of general violence.

'Presidents Photo' Ruled Out By Ike

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The White House has turned down a request that President Eisenhower have his picture taken on the Capitol steps with Former Presidents Truman and Hoover.

James C. Hagerty, presidential news secretary, said he doubts there is much interest in such a picture. He added it would seem to be "an unwarranted inconvenience and an intrusion" on the time of the former presidents to ask them to travel to Washington for the picture-taking.

Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) made public Hagerty's reply to the suggestion, which came from Ralph Therriault of Warden, Wash. Jackson had sent Therriault's letter to the White House last week. The comments by Hagerty were in his letter addressed to Jackson.

It was Therriault's view that the country may never again have two living ex-presidents and that a picture of them with Eisenhower would be one "that might go down in history as of great value."

Woman Uses Car To Kill Man Who Spurned Love

NEW ORLEANS, May 3 (AP)—Bible-reading Beatrice Adams—self-appointed avenger of wronged women everywhere—faced a murder charge today with the defiant statement she wasn't sorry she killed her former lover with her car.

"Why should I be?" sobbed the 33 - year - old former Marine. "Hasn't he taken my life? He's ruined my life.

"The sum and substance of it all is that God and I are tired of men taking advantage of women."

Victim of the spectacular slaying on famed Canal Street near downtown New Orleans was Mack Jernigan, 39, who made his living selling the very make car that gave him his fatal wounds.

Miss Adams said Jernigan decided to go back to his wife, cutting off an affair. This was last Dec. 23 when Miss Adams said Jernigan picked a fight with her.

"He knew his wife was coming home and he had to get rid of me," she said.

Police first charged Miss Adams, pencil-thin and once tubercular, with attempted murder, then switched the charge to murder today after Jernigan died in Charity Hospital.

Miss Adams launched her bizarre vengeance yesterday evening when Jernigan started to get into his own car parked on Canal Street. She hit him with her car, knocking him to the pavement.

Expertly, Miss Adams reversed gears and struck down Jernigan a second time. The injured man dragged himself to the curbing. Miss Adams steered her machine onto the curbing, knocking over a parking meter and rapidly gunned her car back and forth over Jernigan's prostrate form.

House Votes Soil Bank, No Prepayments

Measure Providing New Benefits Sent To Senate, 314-78

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The House passed a new farm bill today, approving President Eisenhower's soil ban program but denying him authority to advance farmers 500 million dollars in soil bank benefits this year.

Democrats denounced the advance payments plan as an attempt to buy farm votes in the November election. In the major test of the day, they defeated a pre-payments amendment 181-157 on almost a straight party line vote.

The roll call vote on passage of the bill was 314-78. The bill now goes to the Senate.

There were many elements of victory for the Eisenhower administration in the new legislation.

No Rigid Price Supports

It would give the President the soil bank he asked for, even though it may not be in full operation until next year. It would also give the farmers a wide range of other non-controversial benefits in an election year.

And it does not call for a return to high, rigid price supports at 90 per cent of parity, one of the reasons why Eisenhower vetoed the first general farm bill April 16.

Republicans failed to defeat an amendment by Rep. Albert (D-Okla) adding grazing lands to the soil bank program and making grazers eligible for 50 million dollars in benefits. The roll call vote on this issue was 199-195.

The administration opposes the addition of grazing land to the soil bank, arguing, for one thing, that it would be difficult to enforce compliance. Some House Republicans called it a "handout" to cattlemen."

Recommittal Move Fails

A last minute GOP attempt to send the bill back to the Agriculture Committee was defeated 211-184 on another roll call vote.

Republicans and Democrats came to terms on a policy for corn and feed grains, however.

The bill was amended to guarantee corn farmers in commercial growing areas price supports of $1.25 a bushel if they put a percentage of their land in the soil bank.

This is in line with administration policy announced several weeks ago.

Without the amendment, the bill would have nullified the administrative action by requiring corn farmers to comply with acreage allotments before receiving government benefits. The President has placed the support level at $1.50 a bushel for farmers who comply with allotments.

President Plans Policy Address

(By The Associated Press)

Active campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination was halted temporarily Thursday while the two rival contenders attended funeral services for Sen. Alben Barkley in Paducah, Ky.

Today Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee and former Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois will be back at it—Stevenson in California and Kefauver in Florida. They face critical primary election contests in those two states soon. The dates are May 28 in Florida and June 5 in California.

During the church services for Barkley, a veteran Democratic campaigner himself who died Monday, Stevenson and Kefauver sat at opposite ends of the same pew. Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, a possible third contender for the nomination they seek, also was present, as was former President Harry S. Truman.

In Washington yesterday, the White House announced President Eisenhower will make an important foreign policy speech May 25 at Baylor University commencement exercises in Waco, Tex.

The White House declined to comment on possible political implications. Press secretary James C. Hagerty simply said when asked about this that Texas is Eisenhower's native state.

"Didn't you invite Charlie?" Mother asked suspiciously.

"Sure," said Walter. "I not only invited him to come. I dared him to."

Deadlocked Arms Parley Drags To End In London

Session Today Only Formality

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—The East-West disarmament talks dragged to their deadlocked end today. The final meeting comes tomorrow—but that is just a formality to close out the seven-week session.

Delegates to the five-nation U.N. Disarmament subcommittee have agreed they can make no further progress at the current series of talks in finding a way to halt the arms race.

A highly placed source said tomorrow's meeting will merely put final approval on a report to the full U.N. Disarmament Commission—the 11 Security Council members and Canada.

"The subcommittee will not be disbanded, just adjourned," Western sources explained. The epectation is it will meet again in about six months.

The subcommittee, made up of the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada, has held 85 sessions over three years.

The consensus among Western officials seemed to be that the talks brought East and West closer together on disarmament than ever before but that major differences still barred the way to agreement.

U.S. Delegate Harold E. Stassen has summed up the subcommittee's work this way: "There have been some very significant steps to move together, but the areas of disagreement remain more important than the areas of agreement."

The subcommittee had worked over three disarmament blueprints.

American proposals provided for a safeguarded partial reduction of both conventional and nuclear arsenals.

A Russian plan dealt only with conventional disarmament over a three-year period, sought the military neutralization of Germany and called for a ban on hydrogen bomb tests.

An Anglo-French plan — the most ambitious—envisaged a long-term approach, leading to an ultimate ban on the use of nuclear weapons.

Simple Burial Service Is Held For Sen. Barkley

PADUCAH, Ky., May 3 (AP) — U.S. Sen. Alben W. Barkley, Kentucky's elder statesman with the common touch, was buried in his hometown Thursday with a former U.S. President, statesmen and his Negro servants gathered at graveside to pay their final respects.

Fifteen hundred friends filled the Broadway Methodist church with thousands others ringing the outside during the 25-minute service. It was a simple service. At the request of Mrs. Barkley, the Rev. William Evans, pastor of the church, did not deliver a planned eulogy.

The Rev. Evans said:

"We thank Thee for him who loved mankind . . . for his loyalty and friendship, his service to country . . . who could walk with kings and not lose the common touch."

Former President Harry S. Truman was among the thousands who filed past the huge bronze casket at the Harris funeral home for an hour and 20 minutes before the funeral began.

Barkley, a vice president during the Truman administration and a government official for a half century died Monday of a heart attack at Lexington, Va., while delivering a speech. He was 78 years old.

Later at the church, Truman was delayed several minutes in entering as newspaper photographers crowded around seeking to get his picture.

As eight pallbearers carried the casket into the church, National Guardsmen from the Paducah unit snapped to attention.

Among the hundreds gathered in the church were three of the most prominently mentioned men for the Democratic nomination for president—Adlai Stevenson, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) and Gov. Averell Harriman of New York.

Stevenson and Kefauver sat at opposite ends of the same pew.

In the church, Negro servants from Barkley's home, "Angles," sat in the front row.

Mrs. Barkley and Barkley's son, David Barkley, and two daughters, Mrs. Weldon Behrend and Mrs. Max Pruitt, both of Washington, sat near the front.

Gov. A. B. Chandler of Kentucky sat with Truman. Other Washington officials included U.S. Sens. Wayne Morse of Oregon, Earle Clements of Kentucky, and Stuart Symington of Missouri.

DROVE CAR OVER EX-LOVER—Beatrice Adams, 38, tells in her jail cell at New Orleans how she ran down and repeatedly drove her car over Mack Jernigan, 39, who had spurned her love for a reconciliation with his wife. Police said witnesses reported Miss Adams first knocked Jernigan to the street with her car, then drove over him after he crawled onto a sidewalk. Jernigan died of injuries yesterday. (AP Photofax)

Britain Raises Issue Of Easing Red Trade Ban

PARIS, May 3 (AP) — Britain pressed the United States anew today to allow easing of Western bans on sale of strategic goods to Soviet Russia and Red China.

Responsible diplomatic informants said British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd raised the issue — a political hot potato in this U. S. presidential election year—in a conference with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles.

British and American delegation spokesmen said the two also discussed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council meeting opening here tomorrow and results of the April visit to Britain of Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev.

Russia Tempts Britain

The Kremlin leaders dangled before the trade-hungry British a package offer to buy up to $2,800,000,000 worth of goods, both strategic and unrestricted, over the next five years. Prime Minister Eden's government spurned the part of the offer dealing with strategic supplies.

But Lloyd came to Paris with instructions to review the trade embargo with Dulles and to explain that mounting pressure is felt from British businessmen and legislators for more business with the Communist world.

Agree On NATO Plans

On other matters, British and American informants said Dulles and Lloyd agreed that NATO must be given a quick shot in the arm through expansion of its economic and political functions.

The two statesmen endorsed the view, now apparently common to the members of the 15-nation alliance, that NATO must adjust tactics to meet Russia's worldwide "trade and aid" offensive in neutralist areas of Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

Dulles and Lloyd will put their ideas before the Council tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower today got in his second round of golf of the week at Burning Tree Club in nearby Maryland. He also played there Tuesday afternoon.

Space Satellite Expected To Stay Aloft Two Weeks

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) — America's first space satellite probably will stay aloft two weeks, Dr. John P. Hagen, director of Project Vanguard — the earth satellite project—said today.

The manmade moon, a sphere of thin metal only 20 inches in diameter and weighing only 21½ pounds, will be so small that powerful field glasses will be needed to gain even a glimpse of it, he said. It will be about as difficult to see the satellite as it would to pick up visually a golf ball dropped from a plane at 30,000 feet, he said. "Only at dusk or just before dawn would it be visible," he added.

In soaring to its orbit altitude of 200 to 1,500 miles above the earth, the space vehicle will pass through temperature zones dropping to as low as 120 degrees below zero in the first 10 miles, then rising to above room temperatures, then declining to below zero and then finally soaring to about 2,500 degrees, Hagen said.

He added that the heat will not greatly affect the satellite because of the extremely low air pressure.

Hagen disclosed new details about the satellite program at a luncheon meeting of the Armed Forces Communications and Electronics Assn.

In answer to a question, he said the satellite program is on schedule and will meet its deadlines.

There has been published speculation that none of the several satellites planned for launching would be ready as announced, either at the start of the International Geophysical Year in July 1957 or by the end of December 1958.

Hagen said that all three stages of the space rocket are well under way.

White Youth Fined

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 3 (AP)—A white youth was fined $50 in city court today on a charge of disorderly conduct growing out of a fight with a Negro on a city bus last night. The Negro had refused to move farther back in the bus, testimony showed.

Ike Tells Hiroshima H-Tests Necessary

HIROSHIMA, Japan, May 3 (AP) — This target city of the first atomic bomb has received a message from President Eisenhower declaring that the forthcoming U.S. nuclear tests in the Western Pacific are absolutely necessary, Kyodo News Service said today.

The Eisenhower message answered a resolution of the Hiroshima City Council urging that all nuclear bombs be banned. Copies of the resolution were sent to the United States, Russia and Britain on March 1.

Kyodo said Eisenhower's reply stressed that the United States is second to none in its desire for controls on nuclear weapons but that the forthcoming tests are necessary from the standpoint of self-defense and in the interests of the free world.

Book On Babies In Prison Library

INDIANAPOLIS, May 3 (AP) — The state is making sure that convicts at the Indiana State Prison have a wide choice of reading matter. In fact, the inmates will soon have at their disposal, "Healthy Babies Are Happy Babies."

That's one of 100 books to be purchased for the prison library.

Other volumes are "How to Make a Success of Your Marriage" and "Psychology of Sex." And then there's "Sex and Temperament in Three Primitive Societies."

Ranging farther afield, there will be books about the birds and the bees plus "The Life of the Spider," "How to Know Wild Flowers," and "Handybook of Gardening." Another book tells the inmates "How to Know and Predict the Weather."

But one volume may be particularly interesting to convicts who are none too happy behind prison bars. It's called "Flight into Space."

$7,647,000 Low Bid On AEC Headquarters

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) — An apparent low basic bid of $7,647,000 was offered today by John McShain, Philadelphia, for construction of a new headquarters for the Atomic Energy Commission.

A commission official said the second apparent low basic bid was Farnesworth & Chambers Co., Inc., Houston, Tex., at $7,718,000.

Thirteen contractors offered basic bids on construction of the new headquarters on a 109-acre site near Germantown, Md., 23 miles from the present headquarters here.

South Koreans Take Political Cue From U. S.

SEOUL, May 3 (AP)—South Koreans are catching on to American political customs.

There's a presidential election coming up May 15 and the main opposition party—Democratic— is campaigning on the slogan, "It's time for a change."

Moreover, all three parties—the Democratic, administration Liberal and Progressive—are making an all-out appeal for the farm vote.

That's no small matter in South Korea, since farmers make up the great majority of the country's nine million voters.

After creating some doubts about whether he would seek re-election for a third term, President Syngman Rhee submitted to a draft movement by his Liberal party lieutenants. At that time the Liberal chieftains said 81-year-old Rhee would not take on the burdens of a campaign trip around the country. Re-election was certain, they said, and an exhausting tour of speech-making and personal appearances just weren't necessary.

But now the Liberals are mapping plans for Rhee to make a last-minute, whirlwind campaign tour. This change of plans could be reaction to opposition efforts to exploit farmer discontent with their economic status by blaming the Rhee administration.

Marvel Steward Saw No Warnings Posted

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP) — The steward of the schooner Levin J. Marvel, which overturned and sank in Chesapeake Bay last Aug. 12, testified today he did not see any storm warnings posted when the Marvel left Cambridge, Md., Aug. 11.

The 64-year-old pleasure schooner capsized in a northeast storm with a loss of 14 lives. Thirteen persons survived. Witnesses for the prosecution said the Marvel sailed in the face of a storm warning.

Charles J. Savoy, testified in the 10th day of the trial of Capt. John H. Meckling on charges of misconduct and negligence.

Texas Tower Joins Nation's Defense Chain

TEXAS TOWER, Atlantic Ocean off Cape Cod, Mass., May 3 (AP)—The nation's first radar island went into action today as a link in the chain of defense against enemy air attack.

The manmade island, launched less than a year ago, has started limited operation with the Eastern Air Defense Force.

Forerunner of a series of Atlantic radar islands off the East Coast, the Texas Tower extends the nations protective fence 100 miles eastward.

Two Starfire jets from Boston, 160 miles away, posing as enemy aircraft, tried to race past the tower in a test mission. They were detected long before they reached this lonely outpost.

Their course was tracked and relayed to shore points as far west as Colorado Springs, Colo., within minutes. "Interceptors" were theoretically ordered into action immediately from several bases.

An injured seaman from a Navy ship near the tower was flown to a base hospital by helicopter in an unscheduled feature of the first day's operation.

Harold M. Swisher Jr., 24, of Vienna, W.Va., cut his head in a fall aboard the De Loyd. A lifeboat from the tower took Swisher aboard and then boat, crew and patient were hoisted by derrick atop the tower nearly 100 feet in air. Next step, minutes later, was the seaman's transfer to a helicopter which took off from the tower for a hospital at Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod 150 miles away.

A tour of duty for the 65 Air Force officers and crew aboard the tower lasts 30 days, with each man rotating with another man on the shore station at Truro on the tip of Cape Cod.

Former Judge Sabath, 86, Dies At Chicago

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP) — Former Superior Court Judge Joseph Sabath, 86, who handled an estimated 100,000 divorce cases but helped bring nearly 10,000 estranged couples back together, died today.

Judge Sabath, who retired in 1952 after 42 years continuous service, claimed he heard more divorce cases than any other judge in the nation.

Dream Almost Fatal

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) — A woman's dream of a burglar almost cost her life early today.

Police said Mrs. Florien Seldon, 42, a Negro, awoke to find herself standing in her bedroom with a German automatic pistol clutched in her hand and a slight bullet wound along the side of her head. She was treated for this at Emergency Hospital.

Segregation Reportedly Ups Negro Insanity Rate

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP)—A Virginia psychiatrist contended today that segregation and uncertainty of moving toward a middle-class white culture is causing increased mental illness among Negroes in his state.

Dr. David C. Wilson, professor of neurology and psychiatry at the University of Virginia Hospital, Charlottesville, said the admission rate of Negroes in Virginia mental hospitals now is more than double the 1914 rate.

He added that the rate of white admissions is only about a third higher.

In a paper presented to the annual convention of the American Psychiatric Assn., he said:

"The Negro in Virginia is far better-off economically and legally than ever before but he is more closely segregated. He has lost the security of his own culture and is moving rapidly toward a middle-class white culture.

"This period of uncertainty and close segregation parallels the increase in the rate of Negroes admitted to the state hospitals of Virginia for cerebroarteriosclerosis, senile dementia and especially for schizophrenia.

"It seems to us most reasonable to believe that the preponderance of mental disease in the Negro population over the white man and its increase in the Negro in ratio to the Negro population in Virginia is due to segregation and to the period of uncertainty accompanying culture change."

Dr. Wilson said that 40 years ago Negro and white families lived across the street from each other in Virginia, the children played with each other and adult Negroes worked in white homes or on the farm. He added:

"The relationship between white and colored was that of master and servant. The Negro had a place which was honorable and respected but definitely inferior."

He said the Negro today is better dressed, owns his own home and probably a car, and has moved from an agricultural to an urban culture. He added:

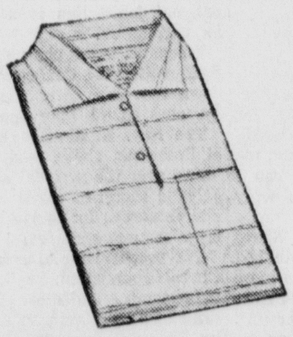

"In spite of all this he is more segregated now than 40 years ago and while his culture was fixed, he has no status as he moved from a culture of his own into a white culture...."

Religion In Russia Very Much Alive But Losing Ground, Priest Says

By TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP) -- An American Roman Catholic priest who spent 26 months in the Soviet Union before being expelled says Communist antireligious drives continually gain ground against Soviet churches. The question arises, he adds, as to how long the Russian Orthodox faith can endure without degenerating into mere superstition.

Nevertheless, the Rev. Georges Bissonnette, who served as chaplain to Catholics in the Moscow foreign colony, declares in a book published recently (by McGraw-Hill) that religion is still very much alive in the U.S.S.R., a "worthwhile menace to the Godless state."

The book is "Moscow Was My Parish."

Father Bissonnette was ordered out of the U.S.S.R. in March 1955 as a measure of retaliation against the U.S. government for its refusal to permit a Soviet Russian Orthodox archbishop to remain in America. Some months before this occurred Father Bissonnette made news when he was introduced at a Moscow diplomatic reception by Communist Chief Nikita Khrushchev to then Premier Georgi Malenkov as "an intelligent and affable man."

Father Bissonnette makes these other points:

The religion of the ordinary Russian Orthodox believer in the Soviet Union is more a way of life, than a body of doctrine. The ordinary Russian thinks the way a peasant does, does not seek learned justification for what he does but is content to repeat the actions of his father and grandfather. It is sufficient for him to be permitted to go to church on certain occasions and to practice the virtues of meekness, long-suffering and charity. That is his religion. That he hears no sermons at all or that those he does hear ask him to back Communist-sponsored "peace campaigns" does not touch the essentials of his faith.

Soviet scientific atheist propaganda goes over the head of such believers. And when the Soviet government adopts direct repressive measures—closing churches and otherwise interfering with religious practices—the religious believers strike back with work slowdowns. As a result the Communists antireligious campaigns continually shift tactics. Nevertheless the priest writes, more churches are closed than open.

Baltimore City, Anne Arundel, St. Mary's Fights Enliven State Judgeship Campaigns

Editors: This is another in a series of profiles on candidates in the May 7 Maryland primary. Today's installment covers the judiciary.

By LOUIS PANOS

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP)—Lively fights in Baltimore City, and Anne Arundel and St. Marys Counties are spicing up the 1956 edition of Maryland's traditionally dull campaigns for judgeships.

Fifteen seats will be filled this year, but two of them already have been taken care of.

Judge Frederick W. Brune is unopposed in the May 7 primary for his post on the Court of Appeals, and Judge D. K. McLaughlin has no primary opposition for his Washington County seat in the 4th Judicial Circuit.

In Baltimore, the "sitting judge" principle has been the subject of considerable debate by supporters of candidates for three seats on the Supreme Bench, which sits in the 8th Judicial Circuit.

Judges Cornelius P. Mundy, Deeley K. Nice and Reuben Oppenheimer, all appointed by Gov. McKeldin, are running for full 15-year terms.

Their backers contend the judiciary should not become involved in rough-and-tumble politics. Once a judge has been appointed to fill a vacancy, they contend, he should not be required to cater to political organizations to hold his seat when he comes up at the next election.

"Don't experiment with justice," is another warning they issue.

Four Oppose Sitting Judges

Opposing the three sitting judges are Edwin A. Harlan, veteran deputy city solicitor; Albert A. Levin, who has served as enforcement director for the Office Of Price Stabilization and a member of the city Housing Rent Commission; Orphans' Court Judge Nellie Marie Marshall, and John A. Meyer, an associate traffic judge under Gov. Albert C. Ritchie.

Meyer and Frank L. Anderson of Riverdale, who is running for the Prince Georges County seat in the 6th Circuit, are the only two judiciary candidates in the State who have filed in just the Democratic primary. The other 36 have filed in both primaries.

Followers of Harlan and Levin have been especially vocal in opposing the sitting judge principle.

"This has nothing to do with the judges who are running for full terms," says Levin, "but I object to the principle which says a man run for some other office, lose the race, then be appointed to the bench—and suddenly he is supposed to be untouchable and above politics when he has to run for a full term."

Levin and Harlan have the support of workers in the organizations headed by Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and James H. (Jack) Pollack, insurance man and north Baltimore Democratic party leader.

Five Seek Newly Created Seat

Five candidates are on the ballot for the newly created Anne Arundel County seat in the Fifth Circuit, but only four are actually running. George Sachse of St. Margaret's filed as a candidate, announced he had changed his mind, but missed the deadline for formal withdrawal.

Of the other four, Matthew S. Evans of Severna Park has been endorsed by the Democratic county committee, of which his wife is a member, and is listed on the slate headed by George P. Mahoney, candidate for the senate nomination.

O. Bowie Duckett, 52-year-old Annapolis lawyer, has the backing of the Tydings-for-Senate camp.

Paul Pitcher, 30-year-old magistrate sitting at Mountain Road, also has been actively campaigning, devoting much of his energy to the populous northern end of the county.

The only Republican of the four active candidates is Noah Hillman, 52-year-old lawyer and former assistant attorney general. He has the endorsement of the Republican county committee, which had earlier announced a policy of neutrality but reversed itself when the Democratic committee came out for Evans.

Slap At Pitcher

The county bar associations executive committee took a slap at Pitcher yesterday in a statement calling Duckett, Evans and Hillman "the only qualified candidates" for the seat. ' ' '

"Politics," commented Pitcher.

In St. Marys County, the judgeship race has drained off much enthusiasm which in other years went into such statewide campaigns as the senatorial fight.

The candidates include Philip H. Dorsey Jr., who ran for attorney general on the Mahoney-for-Governor slate in 1954; John H. T. Briscoe, chairman of the county committee, a majority of whose members have endorsed Mahoney for the senate nomination; and William A. Loker of Leonardtown, son of a former judge.

The county bar association decided by a very close vote to keep hands and not endorse any of the candidates.

Baltimore County

Three seats are open on the county's bench in the 3rd Judicial Circuit, one of them newly created by the constitutional amendment approved by the voters in 1954.

Judges Lester L. Barrett and Michael Paul Smith, appointed by McKeldin, are seeking nomination to full terms.

The other candidates are State's Atty. John E. Raine Jr., former Asst. Atty. Gen. W. Giles Parker; William F. McDonald, former election board counsel and trial magistrate; George M. Berry, who has held the deputy county solicitor's job and several other county posts; and John W. Hessian Jr., former assistant county solicitor.

Garrett County

Judge Neil C. Fraley, former State senator named to the bench by the governor, is opposed by Lewis R. Jones, a member of the Republican county committee. The county lies in the 4th Judicial Circuit.

Howard County

Judge James Macgill, another McKeldin appointee, is opposed by Thomas O. King, now serving his third term as trial magistrate at Savage.

Montgomery County

Two seats now filled by Judges Thomas M. Anderson of Rockville an Kathryn J. Lawlor of Chevy Chase, both appointees, are open. Judge Anderson was appointed in 1954 after being unanimously endorsed by the county bar association. Judge Lawlor was named after losing her bid for re-election to the House of Delegates the same year.

Also seeking the same seats are James C. Christopher, former Bethesda trial magistrate; R. Duncan Clark, former Rockville trial magistrate and member of the House of Delegates; Charles M. Irelan, U. S. attorney for the District of Columbia under President Truman; and Alfred D. Noyes, former president of the board of county commissioners.

Prince Georges County

Judge Raymond Fletcher, former State senator who was defeated for re-election in 1954 and later was named to the bench by McKeldin, is running for a full term.

Besides Frank L. Anderson, former orphans' court judge who has filed only in the Democratic primary, the other candidates are William Beall Bowie, Upper Marlboro lawyer who served as an investigator for the Department of Agriculture, and Samuel W. H. Meloy of Upper Marlboro.

Maintenance Errors Blamed In Air Crash

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics board today blamed a "series of maintenance errors and omissions" for the airplane crash in which 28 persons were killed and 46 injured at Seattle last Nov. 17.

The board directly charged Seattle Aircraft Repair Inc., a repair agency which had contracted for maintenance on the Douglas C54 airliner, with "poor maintenance procedure, omissions during maintenance and lack of proper inspection."

The airplane, operated by Peninsular Air Transport, crashed shortly after taking off from Seattle's Boeing Field on a flight to Newark, N.J.

Fund Drive Goal Near

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP) — The Maryland Division of the American Cancer Society reported at its final campaign meeting today that it had raised $379,048—94 per cent of its $400,000 goal.

More post campaign contributions are expected.

All wool used in American carpets is non-American. While U. S. sheep produce wool that is ideal for clothing and blankets, only imported wool is tough and "springy" enough to withstand floor traffic.

School Safety Patrol To March

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Nearly 8,000 Maryland school children will join the annual school Safety Patrol parade in Washington Saturday.

Nearly 32,000 youngsters from all over the country will march in the parade, which starts at 9 a.m.

The Maryland delegation will include safety patrolmen from more than 200 schools from nearly every county and the city of Baltimore. Thirty-five Free State bands and drum and bugle corps also will participate.

The largest single unit from Maryland will be the Harford-Cecil County delegation, almost 2,000 strong, marching under the auspices of the Bel Air branch of the Automobile Club of Maryland. The combined delegation will include 13 bands.

Art Donovan Jr., of the Baltimore Colts will lead the Maryland group as honorary parade marshall.

There will be State awards for the best elementary band, high school band, drum and bugle corps, safety slogan, safety float and baton twirler. Maryland entries also will be eligible for some 30 national awards.

Murder Conviction Of Negro Set Aside

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The first degree murder conviction of a Pentagon shoeshine boy in the duckpin slaying of a government girl was set aside today.

The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled unanimously that a written confession was obtained illegally from Clarence E. Watson Jr., a Negro.

Watson, 22, was sentenced a year ago to death for the slaying of Alyce O. Taggart, 45, who was beaten to death in her room in a women's hotel in July, 1953.

The Court of Appeals said the confession obtained from Watson could not be used in his re-trial.

The decision, however, does not rule out use of oral statements made by him to police officers.

The court said Watson should have been arraigned before the time of the written confession.

Church Meeting Considers Reports

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Committee reports occupied the attention today of the Central Pennsylvania Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The conference is being attended by more than 300 ministers, laymen and their wives from 288 churches in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia. Bishop George E. Epp of Harrisburg, Pa., is presiding.

The Rev. Harry Houseal, Lemoyne, Pa., was reelected conference secretary. The Revs. R. H. Stettler Jr., of Cheverly, Md.; H. C. Hornbeck, Lewistown, Pa.; and R. K. Heim, New Kingstown, Pa., were elected assistant secretaries.

The following were named chairmen of standing committees of the conference:

The Revs. N. L. Hummel, York, Pa., stewardship and finance; J.H. Fleckensteine, York, Pa., program; B. F. Heiser, Williamsport, Pa., public relations; and P. S. Wheelock, York, Pa., christian social action.

B&O Promotes Johnson

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP) — The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad announced today the promotion of T. E. Johnson, formerly superintendent of the Newark, O., Division, as assistant to the general manager of the Central Region in Pittsburgh.

J. A. Curtis, formerly assistant superintendent of the Monongah Division, will succeed Johnson as superintendent of the Newark Division.

D.C. Segregation Ban Extended

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The District of Columbia Commissioners today extended their ban against racial discrimination in places of amusement to all parts of the District.

The original order, based on regulation by the board of Common Council of the city in 1869, applied only to the area of the old city of Washington. This city was bounded by Rock Creek Park, Florida Ave. and the Anacostia River.

Extension of the ban to apply to all parts of the District was requested last week by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The order barring segregation in amusement places differs from another District action which forbids racial discrimination in restaurants and bars. The latter order hinged upon an act of the Legislative Assembly, which succeeded the City Council in 1870.

Baltimore Cops Get Election Warning

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP)—Baltimore policemen got orders today to keep out of any political discussions on Monday, primary election day.

Police Commissioner James M. Hepbron issued the order for all members of the force to abstain from electioneering, engaging in political discussions with the public, or voicing interest in any political candidate or measure being voted upon.

The commissioner added that "no excuse will be accepted" for violation of the order.

Russia's Zorin Ignores Blasts In Wooing Bonn

BONN, Germany, May 3 (AP) — Although Valerian A. Zorin's "Let's be friends" campaign in West Germany has been the target for some deadly cold blasts in the press, the Soviet ambassador is carrying on.

He is waging his campaign with smiles for everybody, imported entertainers and a cold shoulder for controversy. He has ignored caustic comments about the role he played in masterminding the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia in 1948.

Recently he embarked on a tour of West Germany with Russian violinist Igor Oistrakh, son of David Oistrakh. Zorin's staff spread word ahead that young Oistrakh was "one of the most brilliant violinists in the world — don't miss his concerts."

In Munich on this trip, Zorin popped in on Bavarian State Premier Wilhelm Hoegner for a talk.

In Duesseldorf, Zorin huddled with the Socialist Premier and the mayor. He industriously visited Museums and city landmarks, everywhere remarking "What a beautiful city this is."

In Bonn, at the Villa Hentzen, onetime home of a 19th Century millionaire and now Zorine's residence, the Soviet ambassador has cracked the social ice with big-scale parties.

He is punctillious about protocol, producing affable chit-chat and avoiding anything controversial. To impress his guests with Soviet culture, they are frequently invited to see the Russian ballet film "Romeo and Juliet."

Zorin and his staff are aggressively making contacts with influential Germans and foreign diplomats. They tell everybody: "We want to be friends. We want to see a lot of you. We enjoy speaking German and English. You should also learn Russian. We'll help you."

Nuclear Conference Aides Appointed By Gov. McKeldin

ANNAPOLIS, May 3 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today named four persons to serve on the Southern Regional Education Board's Conference on Nuclear Energy.

They will serve as Maryland advisors with Henry Douglas of the Baltimore Assn. of Commerce, who was named to the study group earlier.

Agriculture — Dr. Joseph Shaw, University of Maryland professor of dairy husbandry; public health —Dr. W. Ross Cameron, Washington County health officer; industry — James C. Alban, Alban Tractor Co.; manpower and education—Dr. Rob Roy, dean of Johns Hopkins University School of Engineering.

They are to work with representatives of the 17 other states in the organization by citing needs and the status of nuclear energy in Maryland.

The project aimed at expanding the industrial use of atomic energy was promoted by the Southern Governors' Conference.

Cyprus Rebel Plans Dealt Blow By British

NICOSIA, Cyprus, May 3 (AP)—A British sweep through the 6,000-foot Troodos Mountains has set the Greek rebel movement in Cyprus back several months, a British military spokesman claimed today.

He said British troops found large quantities of ammunition, food and clothing in a remote cave and that it was "one of the most successful antiterrorist operations yet carried out."

U.S. Red Party Leaders Conclude "Most Self-Critical" Conclave

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP) — The American Communist party, faced with an ideological crisis since the recent denunciation of Joseph Stalin, said yesterday its leaders had concluded a four-day meeting described as the "most self-critical in the party's history."

An announcement from the party said Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the American Communist party, had emphasized the party's "shortcomings and mistaken estimates" over the past 10 years during the conclave which ended yesterday.

The announcement said about 50 party leaders attended the meeting of the party's National Committee and unanimously adopted Dennis' critical report "after a vigorous three-day debate."

The announcement described Dennis' report and set next December for a national convention of the party—the first since 1950.

The meeting apparently was the first get together of American Communist leaders since Nikita Khrushchev denounced the "cult of the individual"—worship of Stalin—at the recent 20th Congress of the Communist party of the Soviet Union.

In recent weeks, writers in the Communist Daily Worker have expressed puzzlement and admitted past errors in following the Stalin line too closely.

Yesterday's announcement quoted party spokesmen as saying Dennis listed these errors as "mistaken estimates on the imminence of war, . . . tendency to underestimate the deep democratic traditions among the people and their willingness to defend the Bill of Rights, (and) . . . an overestimation of the imminence of a deep cyclical economic crisis."

The announcement quoted Dennis as saying "wrong tactical conclusions had frequently followed" from these mistaken estimates.

The party announcement said Dennis pointed out that the idea of a peaceful transition to socialism had been developed in the American Communist movement years ago." It quoted him as saying: ". . . We American Communists reaffirm that we do not advocate force and violence. We do not consider civil war inevitable nor in any way desirable. We desire and seek constitutional and democratic solutions to current and fundamental problems."

Dennis last year completed a five-year prison sentence under a Smith Act conviction for teaching and advocating overthrow of the U.S. government by force and violence.

Seized Romanian Gold U.S. Property

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The State Department said today that 13 million dollars worth of Romanian gold bullion the United States seized during World War II is not subject to negotiation with the present Communist regime. the gold has now become the property of the United States, the department said.

The bullion recently was taken over permanently by the U.S. government under a 1955 law specifying that assets in this country of Romania, Hungary, and Bulgaria, should be used to satisfy the claims of American citizens against them.

Romania has proposed negotiations with this country on claims which the two nations have against each other. State Department press officer Lincoln White said U.S. claims against Romania total $88,500,000.

Tunisia, Its Independence Not Yet Complete, Faces Problems Within, Without

By HARVEY HUDSON

TUNIS, Tunisia, May 3 (AP)—Tunisia — the world's newest experiment in independence and democracy — is striding with impatient self-confidence toward an uncertain future.

Powerful political pressures and tugging and hauling within and without trouble the land. The little country's economic problems are staggering. A menacing war of nationalist rebellion is raging in neighboring Algeria.

Technically, Tunisia's independence is not yet complete. New links of interdependence with France must still be negotiated. The whole new structure must be ratified by the French Parliament.

But that is not stopping the Tunisian government from carrying on its affairs just as if all the formalities were finished. Already Habib Bourguiba, the peppery little premier, has been lecturing France to bring an end to the fighting in Algeria. Further than that, he insists Algeria must be recognized as an independent nation, something the French government says it will never do.

Bourguiba says he will not stop Tunisians from crossing the border to aid the Algerian nationalists.

"The French are our friends, but the Algerians are our brothers," Bourguiba says and adds: "In case of conflict we must go to the side of our brothers."

This is harsh talk from a man who still must get permission from France to raise his own army and who is expecting France to continue giving economic help to Tunisia. France has been in Tunisia since 1881, running the country as a protectorate. Since then Tunisia has swallowed up countless millions of dollars of French government money and private capital.

Tunisia is a small country, approximately the size of Alabama (50,000 square miles), with the population of Chicago (3,800,000). Much of it is barren desert land cut by the Atlas Mountain chain.

About 80 per cent of the population gets its living from the land. About a fourth of the population is unemployed or finds only seasonal work. Wages for farm workers run about 75 cents a day. The average per capita income is estimated at about $125 a year. Since this includes the European population of 250,000 the average income for the native Moslem is bound to be considerably less.

It is from this humble beginning that Premier Bourguiba hopes to build a prosperous nation. He tells Americans frankly he hopes to get help from the United States or the United Nations or both.

The premier is Tunisian by birth, French in outlook, and a lawyer by training. He has spent 25 of his 57 years in prison or exile for agitating for Tunisian independence.

To Tunisians Bourguiba is a national hero. He is the president of the Neodestour party which is the country's only important political group, president of the constituent assembly which is writing a new constitution, as well as being premier and foreign minister.

He makes no secret of the fact that he intends to face Tunisia to the West. Salah Ben Youssef, until recently secretary general of the Neodestour party and himself no stranger to prisons and exile, now sits in Cairo, railing at Bourguiba. Ben Youssef wants to drive all Frenchmen out of Tunisia and take the country into the Arab League.

Bourguiba has three immediate problems:

1. To assure peace and stability in the country which went through three years of terrorism,
2. To stifle the efforts of extremists to take over; and
3. To find the means and money for getting water to some of the arid land to give work to unemployed farm laborers.

If Bourguiba can surmount these obstacles he certainly will be welcomed in the Western security system which he says he wants to join.

Realtor Leaves Net Estate Of $2,310,364

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP) — Realtor George Lippman was a seedily dressed man who dwelt in a furnished one-room apartment. The luxuries that money can buy were not for him.

Thus Lippmann died in 1953, a bachelor at the age of 87.

Today an estate tax appraisal showed Lippmann left a net estate of $2,310,364 in gilt-edged securities and bank deposits.

The fortune goes to 19 religious and charitable organizations and to a dozen relatives.

Senate Cloakroom

by Sen. J. Glenn Beall

Each American citizen paid about $27 last year for the benefits which the federal government is providing for ex-servicemen.

That made the cost to an average family about $95.

If precedent is followed and service pensions are approved for veterans of recent wars, the cost will probably be about $47 per person—or about $165 per family—by 1985.

Everyone Affected

Those figures are taken from a new 415-page publication entitled "A Report to the President by the President's Commission on Veterans' Pensions."

Using thousands of such statistics compiled during a year of work, General Omar N. Bradley and other members of the President's Commission filled their report with 70 recommendations designed to "adjust our system of veterans' benefits to new conditions."

The proposed adjustments, if enacted into law, would have a direct effect on many of today's 81,000,000 servicemen, veterans and their families, and of course, an indirect effect on the entire population.

It is hoped that the veterans' affairs committees in both the House and the Senate will act promptly to arrange hearings on the Bradley Report at the earliest possible date.

Personally, I feel I must reserve my judgment on the complex series of suggestions until I have given a great amount of additional study to the entire matter, but I can say now that I am in general agreement with the basic two-fold idea in the committee's recommendations. That is:

1. That "service-connected compensation and related benefits should be liberal, even generous."

2. That benefits not directly connected with duty in the armed services should be provided, whenever possible through government programs already in effect for non-veterans.

Future Magnitude

According to the commission, adjustments along those lines are necessary because "the magnitude and scope of veterans' requirements will be so large in future years—if traditional patterns are followed—that the moral and economic stability of our whole society can be adversely affected.

An indication of what might be expected if changes are not made can be gained from the fact that under existing laws, the accumulated cost of benefits for each Spanish-American War serviceman is about $12,200, the committee reported.

Again I would like to state that I do not intend to either support or reject any of the committee's proposals until they have been subjected to full discussion and study.

However, I did want to acquaint the people of Maryland immediately with an issue which might become as controversial as any we have faced in recent years.

Congressional Viewpoint

by Sen. John M. Butler

WASHINGTON — How to approach the management of our staggering national debt? That is the question which will confound us for many years to come. Problems of such complexity and magnitude are not solved easily. They cannot be wished away—nor can they be cured by economic charletans. On the other hand, in the three short years since 1952, through the application of sound business and management principles, the operation of our government has been essentially revitalized by a climate of greater effectiveness and greater efficiency — resulting in considerable monetary savings.

The task of cleaning up a federal budget that has been out of control for too long is not a short range proposition. But, an auspicious start has been made. Through the elimination of wasteful, duplicating and often ridiculous policies, it has been possible to cut federal spending.

Even more, however, the answers to our fiscal problems do not lie solely in the establishment of housekeeping economies. The cure must be more fundamental. There is a direct and undeniable correlation between receipts and expenditures, and it is this correlation, or the proper balance between the two, which controls the destiny of all fiscal and economic systems. It shows us that taxation and the cost of government cannot be separated for they are but opposite sides of the same coin. To my mind, the answer is in constructive, orderly, long-range fiscal and debt management policies from which we should not be deterred except for the most foreboding calamity threatening our very existence.

The continuing burden, or New-Fair Deal legacy, in the form of a debt in excess of $280 billion demands these constructive, orderly policies. For all practical purposes, we, as a nation, are now mortgaged to the hilt. Every few months billions of this debt matures and must be refinanced. In less than five years, a total of $175 billion must be refunded, repaid or otherwise treated so that our fiscal affairs will not become more hopelessly fouled or disrupted.

This tremendous burden cannot be completely eradicated in a few years, or indeed in a lifetime. It is going to be a long, difficult and trying journey. But, as an ancient sage once remarked, "The longest journey begins with a single step." It is my firm conviction that the Eisenhower administration has taken that first step toward national solvency.

The first passport recorded in the passport division of the State department was dated July 8, 1796.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

H-BOMB BOUND, May 3—(INS)—The government's elaborately polite note to the Japanese government, promising no harm will come to Japanese people (or fishing) as a result of the new H-bomb tests, and pledging also that we'll pay for any damages, recalls that only 11 swift years have flitted by since we were preparing to drop one on them for real.

That time, however, there was a different sort of exchange of notes. We dropped leaflets on Hiroshima urging the people to leave, when it became clear that the scientists and engineers back home had indeed built and tested an A-bomb and ways and means had been found of packaging it so that it could be dropped from a B-29.

There was another would-be exchange of notes, one that indicates to this day the feeling of guilt that many top nuclear physicists felt over their role in the creation of a bomb. These were the men (and women, for Dr. Lise Meitner played an early role) who wanted this new found energy used for the good of mankind not for his extermination.

Sixty of these scientists who were closely related to production of the bomb got together after the successful test of July 15, 1945 at Alamagordo, N. Mex., and signed a petition asking that the bomb not be used against the Japanese. Or anybody else. The petition was taken to the Pentagon and an effort was made to see Gen. George C. Marshall, then chief of staff. Marshall was at Potsdam with Mr. Truman. The petition reached the hands of Marshall's deputy, Gen. Thomas T. Handy.

Handy scoffed at the concerned little group of scientists. They reworded their plea, making it read, in effect, "Tell the Japanese that we have a terrible new weapon, and maybe they'll surrender." Handy told them about lone Japanese fighting to the death in caves filled with dead comrades. The persistent scientists rewrote once more. They asked, "Call Emperor Hirohito and his war cabinet to a safe place on Tokyo Bay, ask the Japanese Navy to clear the bay of shipping, and demonstrate the bomb."

In Potsdam, Mr. Truman made what he later called the hardest decision of his life. He gave the green light to the multi-billion dollar project. . . And Hiroshima and Nagasaki took their ghastly places in the history of arms. Lost in the shuffle was a request from one of the 60 signators to the scientists' plea. He had officially asked that he be strapped to the first bomb dropped on human beings, and atone for his role in its production by being blown to a million pieces.

Tempus fugits. "The acting secretary of state presents his compliments to his excellency the ambassador of Japan and has the honor to refer to the note from the embassy of Japan dated January 25, 1956, requesting assurances of compensation in the event of damage or economic loss arising from the forthcoming nuclear tests in the Pacific. . . ," began our respectful reply.

From there we went on to recall passages from Mr. Eisenhower's great speech of December 8, 1953, in which we pledged to work for the peaceful uses of atomic power.

We went into our attitudes expressed at the summit conference in Geneva, and recalled, in the guarded and sometimes timid language of diplomacy that "military exercises are a traditional use of the high seas, and the government of the United States considers that inconvenience for other traditional uses which may result therefrom is not compensable as a matter of right." Then there was a big "however. . ." We're nice people.

We'll spend millions scouring clear a sea area about one third again as big as Texas, to make absolutely certain that there is no recurrence of the tragic H-bomb "dusting" of the Japanese tuna trawler "Fortunate Dragon" in 1954.

Japanese fish handlers at home island ports have asked for assurances that they won't be contaminated by harmful radiation if they unload catches gathered after our upcoming blasts. We'll find some way around that, too, I'll bet. It'll cost some money, but we'll find a way. No power in history has ever gone to such ends to avoid hurting peoples' feelings or flesh.

It is thought that Indians took the tomato seed from South America to Central America to Mexico a couple of thousand years ago, but they didn't bring them "north of the border."

"Pitch Black Fiesta"

FUCHU, Japan, May 3 (AP)—The Shinto shrine of Okunitima will have its "Pitch Black Fiesta" on May 5. But police ruled it won't be quite blacked out and there must be no sake (rice wine).

In the past, drinking has led to fights in the blackout; 57 worshippers were hurt last year.

There will be 300 cops on hand this year, just in case.

Along The Potomac

by Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde

WASHINGTON — The spirit of compromise is essential to any worthwhile legislative program. An example is the House-passed highway construction measure. At no time has there been any serious question of the need, but there has been controversy over the method.

The highway construction bill is a step in the right direction. Its most controversial features — the "prevailing wage" requirement, the allowance for costs of moving public utility equipment, the truck weight problem—have been resolved in a generally satisfactory manner.

The volunteer fire department is among the most important of our public service groups. We in the Sixth Maryland District are particularly aware of the valuable aid rendered by local fire-fighting organizations. These groups depend on the communities they serve for voluntary contributions and donations to buy necessary equipment. The law providing for the disposal of federal surplus property does not permit donation of this equipment to volunteer fire-fighting groups, as it does to educational and public health institutions.

I have introduced a bill making volunteer fire departments eligible for surplus equipment. The bill would eliminate the necessity for the volunteer fire-fighters to bid for items they need in their fire-fighting and prevention activities.

The House Judiciary Committee has favorably reported a bill which incorporates President Eisenhower's recommendations on new civil rights legislation.

I am continuing my efforts in behalf of legislation providing assistance to depressed communities. In testimony before the House Banking and Currency Committee last week I stressed the necessity of technical and financial aid coupled with community self-help programs.

Adventist Soldiers Help Develop "Q Fever" Curb

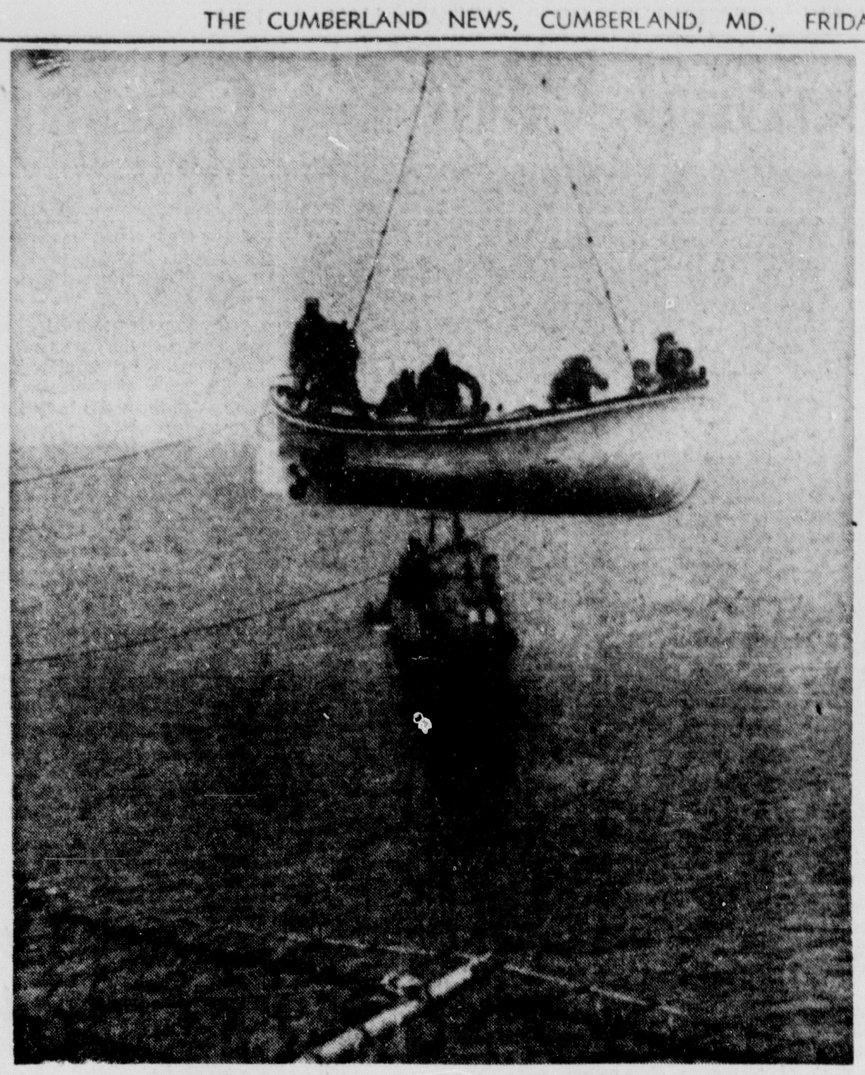

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 3 (AP)—An effective means of preventing "Q fever," an often serious and occasionally fatal pneumonia-like ailment common in many parts of the world, has been developed as a result of "courageous" voluntary exposure to the disease by Seventh-Day Adventist soldiers, the Army reported today.

An Army research report said that experiments in which 170 volunteers participated have demonstrated that terramycin — if given late in the incubation period of infection—can prevent the development of actual sickening symptoms.

The report brought out that some of the men — presumably those used as untreated "controls"—actually became sick.

"Q" fever—believed spread by inhalation of dust contaminated by diseased cattle, sheep, goats and certain other animals and birds—constituted a serious medical problem for American troops in the Mediterranean area in World War II.

The ailment also harried the Germany army in Greece during that war. The Germans dubbed it "Balkan fever."

Plans For Missile Production Disclosed

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Air Force plans to prepare for production of an Intercontinental Ballistic Missile were disclosed today by the company that will build the new weapon.

An Air Force announcement said only that it would build a 40-million-dollar plant in California to produce a missile system.

But Joseph T. McNarny, president of the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., said the plant will be used for "research, development, manufacture and testing of the Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile."

This was the first flat disclosure that the Air Force is getting ready to build the Atlas, which reportedly is designed to travel 5,000 miles at speeds up to 10,000 miles an hour.

The new plant will be constructed jointly by the Air Force and Convair at Sorrento, Calif., north of San Diego.

The Air Force said the site was chosen "because of its proximity to the Air Force test site at Sycamore Canyon," and because it was remote enough from other San Diego defense activities to meet tactical and strategic requirements.

Construction of the plant will start this month. The first units will be ready next spring and the plant will be fully completed by the fall of 1957.

McNarny, a retired general, said 6,600 persons will be employed at the facility by 1958.

The plant will occupy a 280-acre site and will have a million square feet of floor space.

Convair said no testing of a hazardous nature will take place at the plant.

The new plant will be Convair's second devoted exclusively to missiles. Convair's Pomona, Calif., division produces the terrier surface-to-air missile for the Navy and Marine Corps.

Ex-WAC Sergeant Divorces Corporal

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP)—A former WAC sergeant got a divorce yesterday after she said her corporal husband deserted her because his lower rank gave him an inferiority complex.

Mrs. June Fishbein, 27, said she and James, an Air Force corporal now stationed at Tyndall Air Force Base in Florida, were wed in Japan Oct. 28, 1954, when he was a private and she a sergeant.

Her 24-year-old husband, she told Judge Harry G. Harshenson in Superior Court, refused to go on a honeymoon trip with her because he was ashamed of his lower rank. She said the husband also complained that she "pulled" her rank and ran their home "like the Army."

Mrs. Fishbein said she left the service before the birth of their daughter, Casey Elizabeth.

Fishbein, who was represented in court by his father, Harry, an East St. Louis, Ill., attorney, was ordered to pay child support from his Army allotment.

Fort Frederick Bicentennial Will Be Observed May 13-15

Two days of pageantry and celebration this month will call attention to a fascinating sequel to the chapter of America's pre-Revolutionary history which was written in Cumberland.

This will come with the May 13-15 observance of the bicentennial of Fort Frederick, six miles southwest of Clear Spring in western Washington County.

Every Western Maryland school child knows the story of proud General Edward Braddock, who led his troops out of Fort Cumberland in 1755 in an effort to capture Fort Duquesne and strike a decisive blow in the French and Indian War.

Braddock, highly trained in the European techniques of war, wouldn't listen to the advice of his young but frontier-wise aide, Colonel George Washington. And so he led his men straight into a disastrous ambush by French-led Indians.

The Need For A Fort

Here begins the story of Fort Frederick, which ultimately was to help strike the fatal blow to the French that Braddock himself was unable to deal.

Realizing that Braddock's defeat left Western Maryland settlers unprotected from Indians except in the Fort Cumberland area, Governor Horatio Sharpe finally prevailed upon the Colonial Legislature to build a fort to protect pioneer families.

The Legislature set aside money on May 15, 1756, to build a small fort at the foot of Fairview Mountain, on a knoll, dominating the Potomac River 100 feet below and a quarter-mile away.

The fort was constructed in a 240-foot square, with bastions at each corner containing six-pound cannons. Its walls were four feet thick and averaged 20 feet in height.

Captain John Dagworthy took over as first commander in August 1756 with a garrison force of 200 militiamen.

Soon the fort was in use. Indian raids drove settlers into the fort by the hundreds, and at one time there were 600 to 700 persons safe inside the walls of the fort while Indians burned and looted their homes and barns.

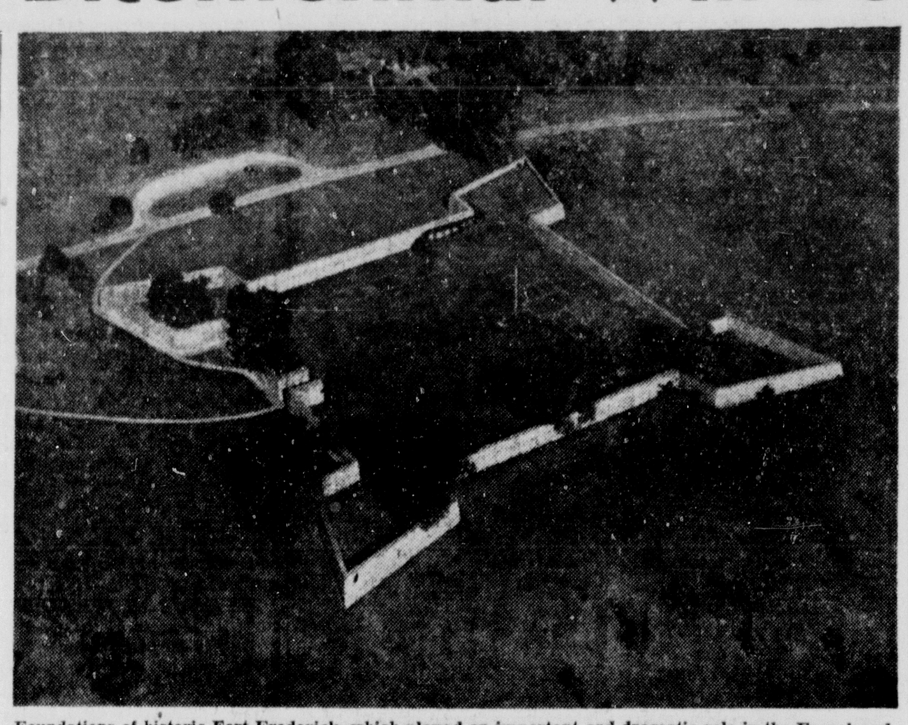

But in addition to protecting frontier families from marauding Indians, Fort Frederick was to serve in another, more imaginative role: the training of frontier fighters.

The fort soon was assigned as a training camp in the techniques of guerrilla warfare—the unorthodox, hit-and-run tactics of the Indian and of the frontiersman.

To the faculty of the new war school came such men as Western Maryland's own Colonel Thomas Cresap, his son Michael, and Colonel Washington himself.

They started by throwing away the book and starting from scratch.

In place of the brilliant parade-ground scarlet and white uniforms which provided good targets for enemy marksmen, the frontiersmen substituted drab but safe battle dress.

Foundations of historic Fort Frederick, which played an important and dramatic role in the French and Indian War, stand out clearly in this aerial photo. The fort will be exactly 200 years old on May 15.

The drum and fife—intended to instill martial spirit into the troops and to maintain marching cadence—went the way of the red coats. It was all too obvious that field music was a dead giveaway to bands of Indians hiding in ambush miles away.

No Wooden Soldiers

Even more basic changes were made. The art and science of European infantry warfare had consisted largely of ranging masses of troops in close-order lines which opened up with volleys of rifle fire on command. It was very neat and precise on a large, open European battlefield, but suicidal in the wilderness.

Washington and the Cresaps broke up the marching lines, taught the troops to take advantage of natural cover and concealment, and schooled them in the use of the tomahawk and the scalping knife.

The training program was soon to pay off.

In 1758, General John Forbes began organizing a second attack on Fort Duquesne, with Raystown (now Bedford, Pa.) as jumping-off point. His troops were alumni of the Fort Frederick training.

Fort Frederick also served as a major supply base for the Forbes expedition, keeping the army stocked with weapons, ammunition, food and other supplies.

When Fort Duquesne fell to General Forbes and was renamed Fort Pitt, Fort Frederick had served well in its dual purpose: it had successfully protected settlers from Indian raids, and it had contributed heavily to the defeat of the enemies whose attacks had caused it to be built.

With the coming of the American Revolution, the Maryland fort again sprang into prominence.

After General John Burgoyne's defeat by the American Army at Saratoga, hundreds of British soldiers and Hessian mercenaries were sent to Fort Frederick as prisoners of war.

But it seemed illogical that the prisoners of war should be held in idle imprisonment in the fort while neighboring farmers faced a critical manpower shortage. And so scores of POWs were loaned out to the farmers as day laborers.

Here began one of the most colorful cloak-and-dagger episodes of the Revolution.

Meeting secretly, a group of British sympathizers hatched a plot to take over the fort, free the prisoners, and make Fort Frederick a pocket stronghold from which the British could harass Washington's army from the rear.

Word of the plotting inside and outside the fort was carried by the day-laboring prisoners as the scheme was being developed.

Plot Miscarries

Finally, the details were ready to be written out in a master plan.

In a plot which smacked of European court intrigue, a British officer disguised as an American was to stand on a certain street corner in Frederick. A Tory courier was to hand him the plans, and the counter-revolution would be under way.

But the British officer dropped the ball and failed to show up. An American soldier, however, happened to be standing on the designated spot when the courier arrived. Unaware that anything had gone wrong, the courier pressed the rebellion plan into the American's hand and disappeared.

The astonished soldier soon recognized the importance of the plan, and turned it over to his superiors. The American authorities hurriedly rounded up several parties to the plot and sentenced several to be hanged in Frederick.

That, of course, ended the practice of loaning prisoners to farmers. Security measures at the fort were doubled to prevent any more such plots.

With the end of the Revolution, the new State of Maryland sold the fort and the 150 acres surrounding it at public auction in 1791, and it became farmland.

More than 30 years later, when work began on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal, the contractors bought the barracks of Fort Frederick, dismantled them and hauled away their stone for locks and aqueducts on the canal. Nobody expected to be needing the barracks or the fort again.

But the outbreak of the Civil War in 1861 again made the Potomac area disputed territory—doubly so because of the new canal and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Part of the First Maryland Regiment, sent to garrison the old fort, mounted a cannon in the south wall and resisted Confederate attempts to dislodge the garrison.

From Pasture To Shrine

After the war, the fort and its grounds again reverted to private farmland use. In 1912, the Maryland General Assembly authorized its purchase by the state for restoration as a historic shrine.

By 1922, when the deal finally was concluded, the old walls were piles of rubble, the barracks foundations were buried, and it was impossible to tell where the well had been.

Extensive research turned up original plans of the fort, and Civilian Conservation Corps workers cleared the area and rebuilt the outside walls in the 1930s. The barracks foundations have been uncovered, but the structures have not been rebuilt.

The whole area now is a state park, and a museum of colonial design has been built on the grounds to display Indian relics, old firearms, and pioneer household equipment.

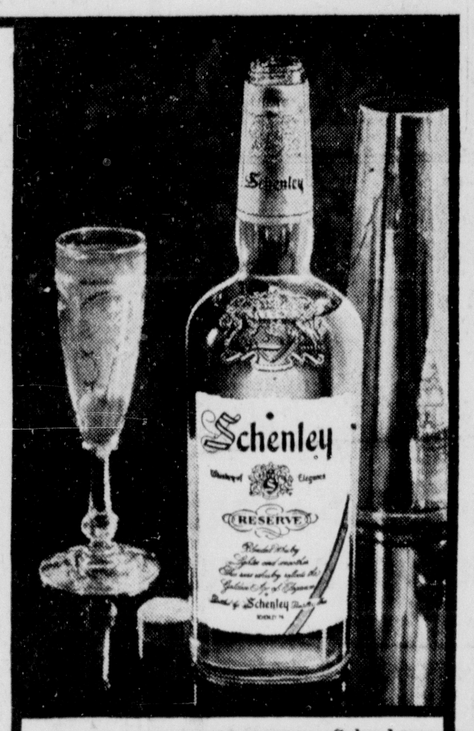

A recreation area also has been developed, with provisions for boating, fishing, picnicking and camping. The area also includes an arboretum to demonstrate the types of forest trees suitable for growing in Western Maryland.

In 200 years, old Fort Frederick has been developed from battleground to playground—and a historic shrine of national importance.

Thompson Assumes Duties As Commissioner Of Boy Scouts

A veteran of 23 years as a volunteer Scout official has taken over as commissioner of the newly formed Nemacolin District of Potomac Council, James C. Warden, council president announced yesterday.

He is Miles G. Thompson Sr., LaVale, who has served in all positions from troop committeeman to council president.

The job of district commissioner is to see that all troops in the district are visited once each month by a neighborhood commissioner. The visits are for advice and assistance for troop leaders, Warden explained.

Thompson will have charge of supervising this task for the 35 Boy Scout troops, Cub Scout packs and Explorer posts in the new district which has been formed from the combination of Cumberland District and Mountain District.

All of the troops in Cumberland were in the district of that name, while Mountain District embraced Frostburg, Grantsville, Midland, and Mt. Savage and their areas.

Thompson started as a troop committeeman with Boy Scout Troop 3 at Mt. Royal School, later becoming chairman. He served as Cumberland District chairman from 1936 through 1944.

A member of the Potomac Council executive board all that time, he took over the chairmanship served as co-chairman with Dr. Thomas Bess of Keyser of the fund raising committee that collected $65,000 for the purchase and construction of Camp Potomac, the big Scout reservation near Oldtown.

Thompson then took over as chairman of the camp development committee that made Camp Potomac the adequate Boy Scout camp that it is today.

From January 1952 to June 1954 Thompson served as president of Potomac Council. Since that time he has been on the council executive board.

He came out of "retirement" to take over the important job of seeing that troops affecting 1,027 boys are kept alive.

Bonn Rebuffs Russia

BONN, Germany, May 3 (AP)—The West German government yesterday rejected a Russian offer of a trade treaty. Such a treaty could not be concluded until Germany was reunited, a government spokesman told a news conference.

Only about one out of every 10,000 beef steers sent to market is regarded as prime.

School Sessions Planned

The district committees on children's work in the Baltimore Conference Board of Education of the Methodist Church will conduct its second annual observation school in this area this evening and Saturday at LaVale Methodist Church.

Mrs. R. J. Reuschlein of this city, director of children's work in the Hagerstown - Cumberland District, will conduct a session for nursery class teachers.

The opening session today, from 8 to 10 p. m., will feature a film strip, "Goals of the church for children." The session Saturday morning will include observation of teachers, with children of the church participating as students.

The first observation school was held last year at Frostburg, with approximately 75 ministers, superintendents and children's workers participating.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Steps To Beauty

This being leap year, each woman has certain occasions when she wants to put her best foot forward and look her very best. Yet too often it is just those times when instead of looking like a glamor girl, she may look her worst, and her competition steps right in and takes her place.

Why? Because she hasn't learned a basic rule. And that is to make yourself as attractive as possible, you must work on a long-range program of glamor. That is, if you want to be a part of that charmed circle of the world's truly glamorous women.

Ask yourself the following questions about your homework and beauty life. Give yourself 10 for each "Yes" answer, zero for each "No." If you are perfect, you get a grade of 100.

1—Are you brushing your hair daily, shampooing it at least once a week and keeping it neat and well-groomed.

2—Do you take a daily 15 minute outdoor walk?

3—Is your posture a beauty asset? Are you consciously practicing better walking, standing, and sitting posture—even as you go about your daily chores?

4—Do you know what foods are necessary in your daily beauty diet and plan your meals to supply these needs?

5—Do you know how to relax? Do you rest ten minutes—no matter what happens—before dinner?

6—Have you analyzed your own face type in relation to your make-up and how you style your hair?

7—Are you taking at least 5 minutes of general and special exercises, and have you succeeded in maintaining a normal weight for your height and age throughout the past 2 years?

8—Do you know your type and stick to it in the selection of your clothes?

9—Are you more beautiful and better-groomed today than you were two years ago?

10—Are you having fun, enjoying life, and smiling often and spontaneously? When you enter a room, are people happy to see you?

Tomorrow — Weddings are family affairs.

Local Reserve Armory Funds Receive Approval

Prospects of Cumberland getting a new Army Reserve armory appeared bright yesterday.

In Washington the House Appropriations Committee approved the allocation of $175,000 for Cumberland, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

ASSIGNED—Airman 3-C Richard W. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Brown Sr., 314 Dorn Avenue, has been assigned to the 3415th USAF Technical School at Lowry Air Force Base as a student in the Department of Armament Training. Brown enlisted at the local Air Force recruiting station.

The House committee passed a 40-million dollar construction program for Army Reserve training facilities and National Guard armories.

There are eight units comprising 200 men using the third floor of the old Footer Building as a training center.

It is understood that there are several sites in Cumberland and vicinity that have been surveyed and are under consideration.

Local Army Reserve officials said they did not know which site has been selected.

One location that has been surveyed is the plot of ground adjacent to the district buildings and property of the State Roads Commission on Braddock Road.

The nine units located here are the Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 810th Signal Battalion; 729th Army Postal Unit; 372nd Military Police Company; 941st and 942nd Ordnance Detachments; Companies G and H, 319th Infantry Regiment, and the 794th Signal Detachment.

The current issue of Look magazine has a picture of the tragic highway accident in LaVale last October 19 which claimed the lives of five persons.

An article, "The Case of the Care-Less Car," includes a picture of the wreck scene with a caption pointing out that the "lives were lost when brakes failed on this truck which had 'passed' official state inspection five days before—clear evidence that highway safety depends not only on laws alone but on continual safety maintenance by motorists."

Other accidents are included.

Driver Given Jail Term In Area Deaths

Austin William VanMeter, about 30, of Mt. Storm, was given a one-year jail sentence yesterday in Mineral County Circuit Court at Keyser after he pleaded guilty to a manslaughter charge resulting from two traffic deaths.

Testimony heard by Judge Ernest A. See disclosed VanMeter "drove very fast" prior to a two-car crash last January on Allegheny Front.

The defendant admitted he had had "a couple bottles of beer" before the accident which claimed the lives of his wife, Ruby Mae, and son, Delbert Wayne.

Judge See ordered him committed to Mineral County Jail to serve the term.

In other court action yesterday, Ralph Munday of Cumberland was found guilty by a jury in connection with the theft of approximately 800 pounds of metal from B&O Railroad. The loot was traced to a Wiley Ford junkyard.

The case of his brother, James Munday, who faces a similar larceny charge, was continued until Monday. Both were indicted during the October term of court last year.

October rape indictments against three other Cumberlanders, James Fadley, Doral C. Lambert and James E. Bierman, were dismissed by Judge See due to the continued absence of the prosecuting witness, Betty Virginia Smith, who mysteriously vanished.

The alleged offense reportedly occurred last fall at the Cumberland Municipal Airport near Wiley Ford.

Lambert, however, was detained for trail yesterday on a state motor charge.

Social Security Manager Cites Importance Of Preserving Documents

Social Security officials here are urging all citizens to take care of and preserve such important documents as birth certificates, wedding certificates, social security cards and numbers, death certificates, and other documents of a similar nature, needed to file claims for social security benefits.

James E. Robertson, manager of the local office, called attention to the importance of these documents yesterday.

"We who handle claims for social security benefits," he said, "sometimes find cases where real hardship results because people who believe they are entitled to old-age and survivors insurance benefits are not able to prove their entitlement. In one case it may a widow having a great deal of trouble getting a marriage record or otherwise proving she was married to her deceased husband. In another case, it might be a claim for child's insurance benefits and no birth certificate or similar record can be found for the child. These are unusual situations but they do happen.

"If you were to write the social security law and regulations, I believe you would require that certain conditions of entitlement be met before benefits would be paid. Many employed or self-employed people pay into the social security insurance fund and regulations must be observed to protect the fund from those who would not rightfully be entitled to benefits.

"If it is a widow claiming benefits, it must be established that she is actually the widow," Robertson explained. "A marriage certificate is the logical proof to be expected. A birth certificate of a child will show his age and prove that he is a child of the person on whose social security record a claim for benefits is being filed. Since the law requires anyone claiming retirement benefits to have reached age 65, some evidence is needed to show that the person is actually that old.

"While the social security office does have a responsibility of protecting the old-age and survivors insurance system against unjustified claims, the purpose is not to try to keep those rightfully entitled from getting their benefits. Our advice to the families of those working persons whose tax contributions go towards making up the social security trust fund is this: Obtain proofs that may be needed before they are needed. Find out if your marriage is actually on record and see if the births of your children are recorded. Get some evidence of your age. Be armed with this information when the time comes to file a claim for benefit payments under the old-age and survivors insurance program."

Half Of Persons Over 65 Assured Income

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP) — More than one-half of the persons in this country who are 65 years and older have some assured income for life under a public or private retirement program, the Institute of Life Insurance said today.

The institute said that the number receiving retirement benefits in this age group has doubled in the last five years from 3½ million to 7¼ million.

Allegany County Cancer Crusade Campaign Funds Now Exceed $3,200

The Cancer Crusade in Allegany County has reached $3,273.98 with many areas still to report, according to William Walsh, county chairman.

Among reports tabulated yesterday were West Side, $451.15, Mrs. Martin O'Toole, chairman; Johnson Heights, $362.49, Mrs. Robert K. Poling, chairman; Bowling Green, $114.10, Mrs. John Costa, chairman; Centre and Mechanic Street section above Valley, $89.31, Mrs. Charles Kight, chairman; North End, $352.10, Mrs. Harvey Stouffer, chairman; Bowman's Addition, $39.09, Mrs. Herbert Smith, chairman.

Potomac Park, $95.07, Mrs. John Zink, chairman; Rawlings, $45, Mrs. Kenneth Sulser, chairman; Cresaptown, $122.15, Mrs. Hubert Martz, chairman; Mexico Farms, $22.92, Mrs. Carl Bierman, chairman; Park Street-Maryland Avenue section, $121.36, Mrs. Delbert Proudfoot, chairman; Virginia Avenue, $130.45, Mrs. John Daychak, chairman, and Locust Grove, $11.10, Miss Connie Jewell, chairman.

The Bedford Road section has made only a partial report with $100 listed. Mrs. Elizabeth Nave is chairman for the area.

LaVale Total High

One of the highest area totals reported is the $507.90 the LaVale Century Club members collected in the LaVale section Tuesday night.

The group of Allegany High students to volunteer for solicitation Tuesday on the West Side included Charles Wilson, Ronald King and Patrick Stewart.

Other students have been assisting women volunteers, Chairman Walsh added, and a group of Fort Hill High students have indicated they will take part in the house-to-house canvass in South Cumberland.

Frostburg Drive Sunday

Frostburg's campaign will be conducted Sunday between 1 and 4 p. m. by members of Girl Scout troops. Surrounding communities of Frostburg will be included in the drive.

Chairman Walsh, in expressing gratification of the rapidly-rising total, was quick to give credit for the large number of donations to Mrs. Nave and Miss Mary Margaret Smith, co-chairman of the Cumberland area's women division.

"It's the women volunteers and the students assisting them who are putting the drive across," he added. "Our special gift and mail appeal divisions have failed to yield what we expected from these sources, but if the house-to-house solicitation continues to prove so successful we're going to make a good showing in the state campaign."

Church To Dedicate Building On Sunday

The new Church School building of Mapleside Methodist Church will be dedicated at services Sunday at 7:30 p. m., according to Rev. B. F. Hartman, pastor, who said the dedication sermon will be delivered by Rev. Harry C. Marsh, district superintendent.

Also to be dedicated, the pastor said, will be new pews in the sanctuary, altars in the Church School, hymnals and an outside bulletin board.

An open house will be observed for an hour prior to the service and also following the dedication ceremony, Rev. Mr. Hartman said.

The groundbreaking for the $22,000 addition to the church took place February 2, 1953, the pastor noted, and is being dedicated on the 50th anniversary of the founding of the church.

The first preaching services were held in private homes in the region where the church is located, Rev. Mr. Hartman explained, while Sunday School exercises were conducted outdoors. All former pastors have been invited to participate in this Sunday's dedication.

The new structure and other items to be dedicated will be officially presented to the pastor by Jesse Dom, chairman of the board of trustees of Mapleside Church. Other members of the group are Percival Twigg, Donald Davis, Homer Sellers, Ray Lapp Sr., Dwight Proudfoot and George Conway.

The building committee was headed by Proudfoot and included Dom, Sellers, Twigg, Lapp, Mrs. Emma Collins, Mrs. Jesse C. Martin, Mrs. Lapp and the late Nelson Sellers and William Boyd.

Stewards of the church are Mrs. Dom, Mrs. Lapp, Mrs. Mabel Jones, Mrs. T. R. Reckley, Mrs. Homer Sellers, Mrs. Evers Smith, Mrs. Doris Proudfoot, Mrs. Emma Collins and Mrs. Sarah Davis.

Miner Killed, Son Injured

A Preston County (W. Va.) coal miner was crushed to death Tuesday in a slate fall in an Omega Mining Company mine at Masontown, while his 21-year-old son was badly injured in the same accident.

Killed was Lee Lipscomb, 55, who was working in the mine with his son, James Lipscomb, now a patient in Vincent Pallotti Hospital, Morgantown.

The elder Lipscomb was a cutting machine operator, while his son worked as a scrapper. The father died of a fractured skull and internal injuries, and his son sustained fractures of the pelvis and ribs.

Services for the victim will be conducted today at 11:30 a. m. at Masontown Baptist Church by Rev. Lawrence LaPrade and Rose Moran and interment will be in Evans Cemetery, Vindex.

Surviving, besides his son, are his widow, Mrs. Ruby P. Lipscomb; four other sons, Hugh, Lee and Roy Lipscomb, all of Vindex, and Charles A. Lipscomb, who is serving in the armed forces; a brother, James Lipscomb, Vindex; two sisters, Mrs. Nellie Bucklew, Rowlesburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Anna Riggleman, Vindex, and four grandchildren.

The body is at the Morgan Funeral Home, Reedsville.

Projects Shown

Sewing projects were shown by members of the Happy Valley Homemakers Club at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Harley Dicken. They included a skating skirt and an apron by Mrs. Kenneth Dicken, a crocheted rug by Mrs. Harley Dicken; a dress by Mrs. Herman Greise and a coat and hat by Mrs. John Spence. Carol Ranker of the 4-H Club gave a report and showed a dress she is making.

A demonstration of salads, of fish and cheese, was given by Mrs. Greise. Roll call was answered with program suggestions and a white elephant sale followed the meeting.

Board Receives Bids For Field

Bids have been received by the Allegany County Board of Education for the construction of an athletic field for Mt. Savage School.

The bids will be reviewed by the Board of Education when it holds its next meeting on Monday.

Joseph Downey, supervisor of maintenance for the Board of Education, said the field when completed will be large enough to accommodate baseball, soccer, football and other major field sports.

Part of the bank on the rear of the existing field will be removed. The project will involve considerable cutting and filling of the terrain.

This is one of the projects in the $900,000 supplemental building program authorized by the General Assembly for Allegany County public schools in 1955.

The average man weighing 150 pounds can exert one-eighth horsepower.

Offer Is Made On Chlorinator

The Upper Potomac River Commission has made an offer to the Town of Westernport, stating that the commission will care for the town's chlorinator free of charge if the unit will be kept at its present location at the Savage River Dam.

It had previously been reported that a member of the commission had stated the commission had offered to pay a man to operate the chlorinator at the dam. The offer instead specified that the tender on duty at the dam would attend the chlorinating machine along with his regular duties.

The offer further stipulated that before any resolution or agreement is signed by the commission the condition of the chlorinator will be examined by a representative of the Maryland State Department of Health and Julian G. Patrick, supervisory engineer of the dam.

Some Went Home But Four Stayed

One thing is perfectly clear with respect to the nine Russian sailors who were given sanctuary in this country last fall: The four who are still here don't want to go back.

These men, who told "everything" before the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, were given every opportunity, at an Immigration Service hearing, to elect to go back home. Soviet Ambassador Zarubin was given every opportunity to persuade them to return. But though he told them the five who went back on April 7 were "happy" in Russia, and added that they would be better off there, they said they wanted to stay in the United States "forever."

One of them also said that though he felt reasonably safe now he would feel safer if he had a gun. He observed that the sailors who went home, and said they were happy, must have been forced by the secret police to say what they said. He was sure they "wouldn't tell such lies on their own."

This testimony strengthens the impression, already strong, that the five sailors who chose to leave this country did not feel free to make up their own minds but yielded to pressures they should have been protected from. Just how that happened, just how it could happen, should be determined not so much for the sake of fixing the blame as to prevent a repetition.

So far the State Department has requested two members of the Russian delegation to the U.N. to leave the country. It is obvious that these men had no business doing the work of Russian consular officials when they are in the United States for another purpose. But what we need to know is whether any of the other Russians involved were engaged in anything improper — and, if so, how they were able to get away with it.

Perhaps the Senate Internal Security Committee will throw more light on this confused situation. Steps should be taken so that those who claim the right of asylum in this country will feel secure here.

These Days

Ike And Dick

Republicans need not go to San Francisco unless they go for the trip; the convention is over; the candidates have been nominated and the platform has been adopted. The candidates, of course, are Eisenhower and Nixon which is inevitable, despite the attempts of some of the aspirants to the presidency to get the vice presidency for themselves, which failed because most organization Republicans, that is those who vote for delegates to the convention, favor Nixon.

As for the platform, it has something to do with moderation which is also the platform of Adlai Stevenson. Moderation is the opposite of a positive position. It is somewhere in between the middle-of-the-road and no road at all. If Stevenson should run against Eisenhower, both parties will more or less have the same platform and it will be a genteel acceptance of the perfection of one step beyond the status quo, without stating the direction of the one step.

It will be a popularity contest, if Eisenhower and Stevenson are the candidates. If either Kefauver or Harriman should be the Democratic candidate, then we face an attack on both Eisenhower and Nixon. Neither Kefauver nor Harriman is as polite as Stevenson who looked so unorganized with a Tampa cigar in his face. Kefauver and Harriman can be very rough and some Democrats believe that the Republicans are fairly vulnerable. But both parties also recognize that their major headache is the Northern Negro vote. Neither party can hold both the Northern Negro vote and the Southern white vote as things stand now. The question, of course, is whether the Negro problem will become intensified by next November, or whether, as Carmine DeSapio generally says, reasonable men will be able to resolve their differences.

The trouble with Carmine DeSapio's position is that on emotionally intense problems, few men are reasonable. Also some differences can never be resolved and have been human problems for thousands of years. One such problem is racial discrimination, or, to put it more correctly, the assumption of superiority by the minority which is in actual control of a society. If we assume that, we have, in the 20th Century, achieved a moral stature which is more just than in the 19th or 18th centuries, there is little or nothing to maintain such a position.

If anything, Marxism has produced a reversion to materialism and a newer and wickeder type of colonialism. Whereas the Russians do not overtly practise racial superiority, they do take steps to obliterate differences and distinctions which may be traditional among peoples and which may arise out of such emotionally tender relationships as religion.

If the Republicans or the Democrats believe that they can solve the Negro problem by November by asking men to be reasonable, they are risking a real split over this issue.

Both parties face the same difficulties with what we call the farm problem, which is really an important phase of our labor problem and of the de-urbanization problem, both of which involve serious population shifts that could change the political map if not in 1956, surely by 1960. What the so-called rigid farm support has done has been to make speculation in farm products an excellent investment for big money people, because the price of the product and its sale have been guaranteed by the government of the United States.

Thus important capital has gone into farming on a large scale with the profits ascertainable in advance by an accountant no matter what a competitive market showed. Many oil speculators also own cattle ranches and the latter is a less risky investment than the former.

But the sentiment of the country is for family farms. The American people are not yet fully conscious of the trend toward privately-owned collectives, although opposition to the big farm is beginning to appear. At any rate, the family owned farm, small as it may be compared to the corporate collective with its increasing political power, is gaining strength through various farm organizations. This complex of farm problems is hardly understandable to city folks whose only interest now is to seek price marked-downs so that prosperity is in some way related to the pocket-book. And the politician faces the farm problem scared because he sees city voters moving into the suburbs where a tulip grows out of the ground instead of being bought in a store.

"No Waiting, Folks–Plenty Of Targets!"

Barkley Will Be Remembered For His Courage

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — The name of Alben Barkley may be inscribed in the hall of fame of American politics as the man who was penalized for his courage and who thereby lost a chance to be President of the United States.

Back in 1944, the then senator from Kentucky was the majority leader of the Senate and the spokesman for President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Democratic party in the Senate. There came a moment when, after many arduous weeks of work, Mr. Barkley had succeeded in getting through the Senate a tax bill which on all sides was deemed fair and constructive. But Mr. Roosevelt, who was looking toward the polls that year and was carrying on a demagogic appeal about "soaking the rich," didn't like the bill and, much to the surprise of Congress, vetoed it. Mr. Barkley was stunned by the action, which he viewed as a repudiation of what he and other members of the Democratic party had worked for.

Seemed Logical Nominee

Resigning the majority leadership as a means of ascertaining whether the Senate wanted his views or those of the White House to prevail, Mr. Barkley was restored to the leadership post by an overwhelming vote. The tax bill itself was passed over the Roosevelt veto. Up to this time, Senator Barkley had seemed logical for the vice presidential nomination.

But FDR never forgot Senator Barkley's defiance. When the time came for the selection of a vice presidential nominee at the Chicago convention in the summer of 1944, the word was passed around that Mr. Roosevelt didn't favor Barkley. Everybody knew at that convention that FDR had not forgiven the Kentucky senator for his manifestation of independence. In FDR's book senators were "rubber stamps"—or else they lost his support. That's why he also carried on a feud with Senator Walter George of Georgia and tried to "purge" him, but without success.

The second instance in which Alben Barkley paid the penalty for his independence occurred during the 1952 national convention at Chicago when Senator Barkley was ruled out of the race because of an alleged unfriendliness to labor. No accusation could be more preposterous, because, ever since the days when the Railroad Brotherhood unions won their first piece of important legislation, known as the Barkley Law, the friendliness of the Kentuckian to organized labor was well established. But here is the story of what happened in 1952, as told by the senator on August 4, 1955, during his last campaign for election to the Senate. He said:

"I arrived in Chicago on Friday before the convention was to meet on Monday. I was busy over television and radio. On Sunday night certain labor leaders who were at the convention gave out an announcement that they could not support Mr. Barkley because of his age, and the next night, on Monday night, after the convention met, Governor Wetherby, Senator Clements, Mr. Leslie Biffle, secretary of the Senate and a lifelong friend of mine, Mr. Jim Farley, whom you all know, and a number of other gentlemen came to my room to tell me that this announcement of the labor leaders had disrupted my campaign, caused many delegates in states with heavy labor votes to desert my banner as if they were rats leaving a sinking ship, and that in all probability under those conditions, I could not be nominated, and that in their judgment it might be better for me to retire from the race while it looked like I might be nominated than to wait and be defeated on the floor of the convention.

"We talked about it a long time, and finally I accepted their advice. Whether that advice was wise is now immaterial. I accepted it. It might be that if I had it to do over I would not accept it. But I regarded the advice as being sincere, and made in good faith, and I retired, therefore, from the contest."

This writer, by coincidence, happened to be alone with the Kentucky senator that afternoon in 1952 and also on the day in 1944 when he issued his statement differing with FDR on the tax bill. Chagrin was written on his face, but he never whimpered. He had carried the ball valiantly in the Senate for FDR. He had gone down the line for labor, only to be tossed aside in favor of the radicals in the Democratic party who wanted someone closer to their ideology on other issues. Both disappointments left their mark. He could have busted things wide open with speeches of denunciation, but he preferred not to do anything to hurt his own party.

Would Have Succeeded FDR

Had Alben Barkley been on the ticket with Mr. Roosevelt in November 1944, it would have been the Kentucky senator rather than Harry Truman who would have had the chance to succeed to the presidency in April 1945.

Does it pay to be courageous? Alben Barkley will be remembered for his courage long after some of the others who attained higher honors are forgotten.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

First estimate on coast-to-coast carpetings by various polls are in and contents dully noted.

It requires two-thirds plurality of conjectures to nominate. The guesses are still sub-nimble.

Estes and Adlai are running as even as banjo strings. With Estes having an edge in the museum of undecided opinion. But Adlai gives it the fine balance of a 50-dollar trout rod by snagging the floating vote. Only a game opinion swims upstream.

The polls have held their spring primaries with allowances for evaporation in transit, duplication of efforts in echo chambers and increase of impartial voters who don't answer their doorbells.

Getting the duke in a poll is not equivalent to the nomination. It just shows you are as available as a park lake rowboat.

There will always be a doubt about who's the champ on a three-party telephone.

Secretary Wilson Would Not Believe Reds Forging Ahead In Air Power

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—It was on May Day, two years ago this week, that the United States got its first shock indicating that Russia was on the way to forging ahead of us in air power.

As American and Allied military attaches stood reviewing the usual May Day exhibition of Russian military might, a giant jet thundered over Moscow housetops at an altitude of only 250 feet. The bomber was so tremendous that its shadow literally spanned the great Red Square as it flashed through the morning sunlight. American observers quickly noted that its four intake vents seemed larger than any they had seen at home, that the heavy plane easily kept up with swift jet fighter squadrons.

Messages of shocked reaction immediately burned the cables to Washington. But Secretary of Defense Wilson refused to be alarmed. He dismissed the new bomber as a single, hand-built prototype assembled by the Russians to scare the Western world into more defense spending. He noted that the plane had only four engines and pronounced it an underpowered showpiece. Air Force generals disagreed, but Wilson overruled them.

Real shock came a year later—1955—when the Russians flew their prize bomber across the Moscow skyline again. By that time the lone giant of the previous May Day had company—18 more big battleplanes. Of these, 13 bore routine Red Air Force markings. Six, with no markings, apparently were so fresh from the factory they hand't been assigned to combat units. Each sported a new underbelly bulge, an ominous modification that experts identified as extra room for the H-bomb.

Eleven Short Years

Our intelligence agencies went to work compiling technical data. All available facts on the monster bomber were secretly supplied to our manufacturers. They were asked to figure how long it took the Russians to produce such a plane. The whole Soviet air buildup was re-examined, and the fantastic truth emerged.

In 11 short years, the Russians had not only caught up with us in design, but outstripped us in production of jet planes. Numerically, the Soviet Union today has the world's largest air force. She has more combat planes than this country, and her factories are producing them faster. She has accomplished this so secretly that our intelligence has repeatedly been caught napping.

Our technical intelligence has made detailed examinations of 14 Soviet planes since 1945. These airplane autopsies showed that Soviet technology lagged behind us from 1945 until 1952. Since 1952, the Russians have equaled our best efforts in air weapons. In some catagories, we are slightly ahead; in others, they are superior.

American manufacturers concluded from their secret study that Russia's giant jet Bison completed the cycle from drawing board to military service in four years—compared with the eight years which the U. S. spent developing the B-52. The first Bison appeared over Moscow two years before our intelligence thought it could be possible. When the Russians flew 19 more in formation a year later, the U. S. had only two complete B-5's.

Sealed In Factories

American agents report the Kremlin sealed engineers, technicians and workers into Plant 23 in Moscow and refused to let them out until they had built the Bison. The imprisoned personnel, working around the clock, set an astonishing production record.

The Soviets are now turning out the Bison at Plant 23 at the rate of five every month. They are using unskilled labor wherever possible, taking short cuts and holding down design changes. Soon, says Air Force intelligence, Plant 23 should be making 10 Bisons per month. Russia already has 20 jet-powered Bisons assigned to combat units. Our total of B-52's ready for combat is only three. (In both countries, of course, many more of the big jets are near completion.)

On top of all this, Kremlin Czar Nikita Khrushchev has now boasted that Russia will also develop the first intercontinental guided missile with a hydrogen warhead. This missile will be capable of hitting anywhere in the world with a destructive force measured in millions of tons of TNT. Our experts say Khrushchev would not risk losing face by making this open boast unless he was sure of himself.

NOTE: The Eisenhower administration's economy program, more than anything else, has cost us air superiority. Administration spokesmen excuse this on the grounds that peace prospects are better, hence there is less need for a big air force. Air generals warn, however, that we must gear our strength to Russian capabilities, not guesswork on Russian intentions.

Will History Repeat?

Justice Hugo Black of the Supreme Court is now out of politics. He can't comment on the current presidential race, but he can recall history. And if history today is anything like history when Black ran for Congress in Alabama, neither Senator Kefauver nor Adlai Stevenson will come out the winner in the Democratic convention in Chicago.

Here is the history which Justice Black recalls. In 1927 he was running as a dark-horse candidate for Congress in Alabama. Chief candidates were John H. Bankhead and ex-Gov. Thomas E. Kelby. They not only were the front running candidates but staged a full-dress debate in Sheffield. Just before the debate Black had a sign painter get to work. Black instructed him:

"You take this sign and put it up outside the auditorium so everyone will see it when they go out from the debate."

The sign read:

"Bankhead says, 'Don't vote for Kelby.'

Kelby says, 'Don't vote for Bankhead.'

"Vote for Hugo Black."

Black won the election.

Feeling Peoples' Pulse 2

By Stewart Alsop

CHICAGO, Ill.

The rather exhausting experience of interviewing at some length 75 American voters of all shapes, sizes, and shades of political opinion leaves you with a curious jumble of recollections.

You remember how nice and friendly people are, even when their privacy is invaded by total strangers. You remember how uninformed many are ("Harriman? Well, I can't rightly say who that is") and how inarticulate ("Why do I like Ike? Well, he just seems like an awful nice sort of person"). You remember the shameful squalor of the Negro slums here in Chicago (worse than anything in Moscow), and the sense of modest prosperity elsewhere, with an underlayer of nervousness about the future ("Why, there isn't a house or a car on this street that's paid for").

Two Impressions

You remember also certain totally unscientific, purely personal, but nevertheless very vivid political impressions. This reporter has brought away with him two such impressions.

One is that President Eisenhower is stronger with the voters—at least outside the farm areas—than in 1952. The other is that something sad and mysterious has happened to tarnish the public image of Adlai E. Stevenson.

This reporter embarked on the pulse-feeling expedition suspecting that President Eisenhower's popularity might be thin and brittle, an artificial product of political propaganda. The suspicion was totally unfounded. The President's popularity is genuine and deeprooted, and it will be extraordinarily difficult for the Democrats to counteract it.

Of the 75 people this reporter and the expert professional pollster, Louis Harris, have interviewed in this area, only one previous Eisenhower voter showed any signs of defecting. Eight previous Stevenson voters had gone over to Eisenhower, or moved into the "don't know" category. But these meager statistics are unimpressive. What was impressive was the way people talked.

Heart Attack An Asset

"President Eisenhower is a man of peace." We heard that phrase, or something like it, again and again. Moreover, distasteful as it is for this reporter to admit, there was virtually no feeling that the Eisenhower peace was insecurely defended. One big, jovial woman on a middle class street said she had her doubts about the administration's defense policies, as a result of listening to Arthur Godfrey. But that was all. "Why, that's the first thing Ike would think of," another lady said, and she spoke for the vast majority.

Prosperity, unlike peace, is a negative Eisenhower asset. Not many people feel better off than they did in 1952. But they do not feel worse off, and it is clear when you talk to them that many expected to, under a Republican administration.

The President has a third, and rather astonishing, political asset—his heart attack. A good many people apparently intended to vote for the President rather as one might send flowers to a sick friend, to cheer him up. We were unable to find a single person who had decided to vote against the President because of his health. And the heart attack has clearly made a real human being of the President in a way that no other political personality is real and human.

That is what the Stevenson candidacy seems to lack—a sense of the reality and human-ness of the man. Stevenson was quite right when he complained, after the Minnesota primaries, of a "failure to communicate." As one Democrat put it, "Stevenson just doesn't stand for anything any more. He talks with that big vocabulary but it doesn't make any sense any more."

Hostility Towards Stevenson

Of course there are plenty of Stevenson supporters and even enthusiasts—particularly among the Negro voters, among whom Stevenson is miles out in front of both President Eisenhower and Senator Estes Kefauver. ("Are you against Kefauver because he's a Southerner?" we asked one big, genial Negro lady. "Amen," she replied fervently).

But outside the Negro areas, even in the heavily Democratic precincts, we repeatedly ran across a curious and inexplicable hostility towards Stevenson. "I just don't go for that Adlai," people would say.

There was some spotty enthusiasm for Kefauver ("He's the only honest one, all the rest are crooks"). But it seemed clear that no Democratic candidate had even begun to light a fire in the land. If one may be permitted to draw a large conclusion from a tiny sampling of the way the voters talk, it is this: Somehting big and important and dramatic, either here or abroad, is going to have to happen to change the situation, if the Democrats are going to have a ghost of a chance of recapturing the White House in November.

Common Sense Should Be Applied To Gardening

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Every spring our family gets a hankering for a vegetable garden. There is something satisfying about grubbing in the earth and tending to growing flowers and vegetables. The work strengthens the muscles of the arms and back and the sun and air add color to the cheeks. By midsummer my waistline is reduced and my wife's figure is like a college girl's.

Gardening serves another purpose. Youngsters learn more about nature and how things grow. In addition, it may offer the city child his only opportunity to know how good a homegrown carrot, tomato, or ear of corn tastes. Foods gathered from your own back yard are more appetizing than those from bottles, cans, or the deep-freeze.

The need for a vegetable and fruit garden is not as acute as during the war, but such plots offer an excellent source of vitamins. With a little attention to selection, produce can be raised to maintain our A and C requirements.

Furthermore, the exposure to sunlight supplies us with vitamin D. Little space is needed to keep the table supplied with greens all summer, with enough left over for canning or deepfreezing.

But there is no sense in overdoing a good thing. Gardening is work and victims of rheumatism, lumbago, or heart disease ought to forego the hobby. Preparing the vegetable patch is like acquiring a suntan; it should be done gradually. Power tools are available for cultivation and can be rented in some communities at a small fee.

No vegetables, regardless of taste, can compensate for the pain of strained back or arm muscles or an attack of bursitis in shoulder or elbow. To avoid strain, the sedentary worker must limit his gardening to an hour a day. Insomniacs should do their spading, pruning, and watering in the evening because the exertion insures just enough fatigue to encourage sleep.

The office worker develops hand calluses unless he wears gloves. Cuts and bruises are not uncommon when the tools are used improperly. Make certain the rake is strong and the handle is smooth, without splinters.

The allergy victim also should be careful because old weed patches and vacant lots often harbor allergens to which he is sensitive.

TOMORROW: German measles.

FOOD IN THE WINDPIPE

D. F. writes: If a particle of food that goes down the wrong way is not coughed up, what happens to it?

REPLY

It usually causes irritation that leads to pneumonia. Most of these particles are expelled, however, unless the individual is unconscious, paralyzed, or debilitated.

PUFFS ON CLIMBING

C. R. writes: I'm 41 and puff when walking upstairs. Could this be due to my 210 pound weight or to smoking a pack of cigarets a day?

REPLY

Both are possibilities but don't forget your age is showing a little.

BANK FOR DIABETICS

D. writes: There are blood, skin, and bone banks. Are there any pancreas banks?

REPLY

Yes, in the sense that the active ingredients of the pancreas are contained in little bottles labeled "insulin." On the other hand, the pancreas cannot be transplanted like skin or bone.

FAINTING AFTER COUGHING

J. M. writes: My father has chronic bronchitis and sometimes coughs so hard he passes out. What makes this happen?

REPLY

This is known as cough syncope. Coughing initiates a reflex that causes the blood pressure to fall so low the individual faints. Many victims of bronchitis cough violently in an effort to bring up the secretions. If your father would use less force or take medicine to liquefy the sputum, fainting might not occur.

CAUSE AND EFFECT

Mrs. G. J. writes: Are alcoholics infertile?

REPLY

They usually are impotent.

TONSIL REMOVAL

G. N. writes: Is the removal of tonsils absolutely necessary?

REPLY

Long before surgeons were invented, most of the inhabitants of this earth lived happily with their tonsils. Nowadays we also can live with them. Tonsillectomy is recommended when the organs are diseased and affecting health and well being.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellan will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

"I'm not sure," admitted Lawyer Beagle, "that your grounds for claiming a divorce are valid in this state. It's all very well to say he's careless about his appearance, but it seems to me—"

"I don't think you understand," interrupted the client. "He hasn't shown up in four years.

"And now," beamed the business school teacher, "tell the class what you do when your employer rings for someone to take dictation."

"I pick up my notebook," recited bright little Miss Hastings, "sharpen my pencils and answer the buzzard promptly."

An "Extra" that fits into every eating occasion.

Fruit bread sandwiches are always welcome lunch box fare—and a perfect partner for a luncheon fruit plate. The bread should be sliced thin, of course, and requires only the simplest of fillings such as a bland cream cheese.

A new approach to the fruit bread category is demonstrated in the recipe suggested here. Crushed pineapple, chopped prunes and walnuts combine to make a deliciously different and taste-appealing bread.

Here's the easy technique for making Pineapple Prune Bread—good to the last morsel!

PINEAPPLE PRUNE BREAD

1 cup boiling water
1 cup uncooked, dried prunes, pitted and chopped
2 teaspoons soda
1 cup pineapple tidbits
1 cup syrup from pineapple and water
2 tablspoons salad oil
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powde.
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped walnuts or pecans

Pour boiling water over chopped uncooked prunes; add soda. Drain pineapple tidbits thoroughly and add enough water to syrup to make 1 cup; pour over prunes. Allow to stand while mixing batter.

Combine salad oil, sugar and egg thoroughly. Stir in vanilla. Sift flour, measure and sift again with baking powder and salt. Add to creamed mixture alternately with liquid from prunes and pineapple.

Then add prunes, pineapple tidbits and nuts. Spoon into two 5 x 9-inch loaf pans and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees) for one hour. Makes 2 loaves.

Country Style Liver, Corn

Liver, so important nutritionally, should be included in your family meals often. It's a good meat buy too, because there's no waste. It's quick to fix because it needs no lengthy cooking.

Liver is as savory as the most expensive steaks and with this recipe it will become a favorite with your family! Fixed this way there is plenty of onion, golden kernels of tender corn and tomato sauce. Serve the Country Style Liver and Corn on tender fluffy white rice to take advantage of all the good gravy.

Buttered Brussels Sprouts
Perfection Salad
Hot Bread
Apple Pie With Cheese

INGREDIENTS:

1 lb. pork, beef or calf's liver, sliced
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
3 tablespoons cooking fat
2 cups onions, sliced (halve large slices)
2 cups water
1 cup uncooked white rice
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup whole kernel yellow corn
¼ cup water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon black pepper
2, 8 oz. cans tomato sauce

METHOD: Remove skin from liver slices. Dip in the flour and coat heavily. Melt the cooking fat in a large skillet. Add the liver and over a medium heat, brown well on one side. Turn. Place the onions over the liver.

While the liver browns, place the 2 cups water, rice and 1 teaspoon salt in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid. Leave over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove saucepan from the heat but leave lid on until ready to serve, at least 10 minutes.

After the liver browns on the other side, lift it and place it over the onions to allow the onions to brown slightly. After the onions brown, add the corn, ¼ cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and tomato sauce. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until the liver is tender. Serve the liver and gravy over a platter of the hot rice.

Deviled Ham Croquettes

Deviled ham may be one of those prepared foods you forget to use in your cooking. In this recipe its' easy to use and its nippy taste adds flavor to these deviled ham-pickle-rice croquettes served with sharp cheese sauce.

If this is the first time you've used dill pickles to flavor a hot meat dish, you're in for a delightful surprise! Make your white sauce slowly for smooth, even texture!

Deviled Ham and Pickle Croquettes
Glazed Carrots
Buttered Spinach
Grapefruit Salad
Hot Rolls
Pineapple Upside-Down Cake

Ingredients: 1⅓ cups water; 1 teaspoon salt; ⅔ cup uncooked white rice; ¼ cup butter or margarine; 5 tablespoons all-purpose flour; 1 teaspoon salt; ¼ teaspoon black pepper; 2 cups milk.

1, 4 oz. can deviled ham; 2 tablespoons finely grated onion; 2 tablespoons finely chopped dill pickle; 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce; 1 cup milk; 1 cup grated sharp cheese; 1 egg, well beaten; 1 cup fine soda cracker crumbs.

Method: Put the water, 1 teaspoon salt and rice in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a vigorous boil. Turn the heat as low as possible. Cover with a lid and leave over this low heat 14 minutes. Remove saucepan from the heat but leave lid on 10 minutes.

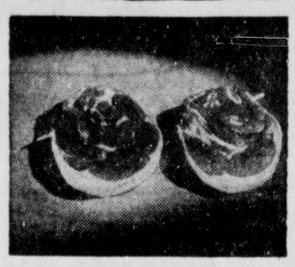

While the rice cooks, make the white sauce: melt the butter or margarine in a saucepan. Blend in the flour, 1 teaspoon salt and pepper. Cook over a low heat, stirring constantly, for several minutes, but do not brown. Gradually stir in 2 cups of milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture becomes very thick.

After the rice cooks, stir in 1 cup of the thick white sauce, the deviled ham, onion, dill pickle and Worcestershire sauce. Divide this still mixture into 6 portions of ½ cup each. Place on a platter or pan. Cover and chill.

Stir the 1 cup of milk and the sharp cheese into the rest of the white sauce. Heat slowly, stirring, until the cheese melts. Cool. Cover and chill. Just before mealtime, reheat the cheese sauce over hot water. While the sauce is heating, shape the rice-ham mixture into tepee or cone shaped croquettes. Roll first in the egg, then in the cracker crumbs. Fry in deep fat at 370° F. until golden brown on all sides. Drain on absorbent paper. Keep hot in a warm oven. Serve hot with the hot cheese sauce.

MEAT COOKERY Quiz

Q. What is the name of these cuts of meat?

A. Lamb Boneless Shoulder Chops.

Q. Where do they come from and how are they identified?

A. They are cut from the boneless rolled shoulder. The rolled shoulder is made from the square cut shoulder, which is the thickest part of the forequarter with the shank, breast, rib and neck bone removed.

Q. How are they prepared?

A. Usually by broiling, but they may be panbroiled or braised. For broiling, the oven regulator is set to broil. The chops are placed on the broiler rack. The broiler pan and rack are inserted so the tops of 1-inch chops are 2 inches from the heat and 2-inch chops are three inches from the heat. When one side is browned, the chops are seasoned, turned and cooked on the second side. Then the second side is seasoned and the chops are served immediately.

Corned Beef—De Luxe

If it's a stag dinner you're preparing or perhaps just a dinner to satisfy those hearty male appetites in your home—try this recipe.

Cover corned beef with cold water. Cover tightly and simmer gently for 3 to 4 hours or until tender. Add more water, if necessary, to keep the corned beef covered. When done, remove and drain. Spread top surface with brown sugar and dry mustard. Stud with cloves and place in a moderately hot oven (400° F.) for 15 minutes.

All beef is not steak. In fact, the average 1,000-pound steer yields only about 35 pounds of porterhouse steaks.

If Jelly Contains Glasslike Particles

Could be due to:

(a) Too much sugar. Use regular measuring cup. Don't shake it. Do level off the sugar with straight edge of knife. When pectin is not added, ¾ cup sugar to one of juice is right for most fruits.

(b) Long, slow cooking. Fast is right for everything except quince.

(c) Undissolved sugar sticking to pan and washing into jar as jelly is poured.

Note: If jelly is grape, the crystals may be tartaric acid, the natural substance in grapes from which cream of tartar is made. Unlikely to appear in jelly made from canned juice or from fresh juice which is carefully strained after standing in a refrigerator several days.

Desserts give a satisfying finishing touch to a packed lunch. Cake, pie or cookies add variety and help meet the high energy of growing children and teenagers who are always on the go.

Simmer Liver Magically

Here is a magic potion to transform liver into a rave dish. Dust one pound of thinly sliced liver in ¼ cup flour seasoned with ½ teaspoon salt and a dash of black pepper. Brown the liver in 2 tablespoons butter. Pour over top 1 can (1¼ cups) spaghetti sauce with mushrooms. Simmer about 15 minutes or until tender. Stir now and then. Team this with baked potatoes and a green vegetable. For dessert, stewed spring rhubarb with a few gratings of orange rind and "boughten" cookies.

If Jelly Weeps

Syneresis or "weeping" more often occurs in quick setting jellies. It is thought to be caused by:

(a) The quantity of acid and quality of pectin in the fruit — nothing you can do about it. (b) Poor storage. It may be damp and warm. Should be cool and dry.

Here's How To Dress Up Leg Of Lamb

A relish accompaniment adds piquancy to the main dish and may well serve as the garnish, too.

For instance, a pork loin roast just naturally calls for apple sauce but a rosy colored apple sauce certainly would add a note of taste and color appeal to the meal.

When it comes to eating a leg of lamb, some people think mint sauce or jelly is the only accompaniment. But perhaps other suggestions for lamb accompaniments may be just as well liked.

Fill a pear half with mayonnaise tinted a delicate pink, top this with paprika and serve as a leg of lamb accompaniment.

For a delightful vegetable suggestion, try minted carrots, or accent peas with diced bacon and small cocktail onions.

For the best in flavor, prepare gravy from the drippings of the lamb roast. Use currant jelly in the gravy to give a delicate pleasing flavor.

For those cold slices of lamb, use colorful garnishes which add savor to eating. At times, especially during the warm summer months, these garnishes may serve as a salad.

For a cool garnish for cold slices of lamb, roll pineapple chunks in minced mint leaves and sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Or, perhaps you prefer a warm garnish with cold lamb — in that case try fried bananas. This is bound to please the children. There is always your favorite barbecue sauce which can be served over cold lamb slices.

Panfrying Method

To be assured of top results in a meat dish, be sure you use the proper meat cookery method. When panfrying, brown the meat on both sides in a small amount of lard or drippings, season with salt and pepper. Cook at a moderate temperature until done, turning occasionally. Do not cover the pan. Remove the pan and serve at once.

Why Not Broil?

Broiling is not recommended for veal chops and steaks since veal comes from a young calf and consequently has little fat in comparison to a mature animal. To prepare veal steaks and chops use a moist method of meat cookery—that is, braising.

Lamb With French Toast

Leftover lamb need not go to waste. Surprise your family — they won't even know the dish you're serving has leftover meat init. Prepare french toast in the usual manner. Mince cooked lamb, sprinkle it with flour and brown it well in a small amount of lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Add leftover gravy, heat thoroughly and serve over the french toast. A molded gelatin salad served on crisp, iced lettuce will make the perfect side attraction.

Attractive Meal In A Dish

For a tasty and unusual main dish for lunch or supper, try Asparagus Deviled Ham Rolls with Cheese Sauce. The flavor combination is delicious and it is an attractive way of serving these foods which go so well together.

Asparagus and cheese sauce have long been a popular combination, and rightly so. Cheese, respected for its fine flavor and its high quality protein, is the perfect flavor contrast to tender stalks of green asparagus. Cheese should have a place of importance in all refrigerators. Use fresh asparagus while it is in season or use frozen or canned spears out-of-season.

Add to the menu in which this is included a combination salad with a tart dressing, milk and your favorite flavor of ice cream for dessert.

ASPARAGUS DEVILED HAM ROLLS

2 pounds fresh asparagus or
2 packages frozen asparagus spears
6 hot dog rolls
1 can (4 ounce) deviled ham
Paprika
Cheese Sauce

Cook fresh asparagus tips in 1-inch boiling salted water, covered, until tender, about 20 minutes, or if using frozen spears, cook according to package directions. Cut hot dog rolls through the center of the top to within ¼ inch of the bottom. Place on cookie sheet in moderate oven 350°F., until lightly toasted. When toasted spread cut sides with deviled ham. Place in an oblong baking pan and put about 6 asparagus tips in each roll. Spoon cheese sauce over the top of each roll. Place in moderate oven 350°F., until heated through, about 10 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika and serve. Makes 6 servings.

CHEESE SAUCE

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 cup shredded American cheese

Melt butter in saucepan, stir in flour and blend. Add milk gradually and continue to cook and stir over low heat until smooth and thickened. Stir in cheese and keep over heat until cheese is melted. Season to taste. Makes 2 cups sauce.

Unique Dish - That's Scotch Pancakes

Oatmeal porridge and the Scottish people are a natural twosome, since many Scottish families use it as a staple at the breakfast table.

That's why the American people have coined the term Scotch Pancakes for this delightful dish using oatmeal and ground cooked pork.

These pancakes are a perfect way to use the cooked pork leftovers in the refrigerator.

This may be either a luncheon or breakfast dish. Perhaps we Americans could take a lesson from the bonnie laddies and lassies of Scotland, a hard working thrifty group, but always eager to share what they have earned.

Scotch Pancakes

2 cups cooked oatmeal
2 cups ground cooked pork
2 eggs
Salt Pepper
2 tablespoons lard or drippings

Combine oatmeal, pork, eggs, and seasonings. Mix thoroughly. Fry cakes, using one tablespoon for each in a small amount of lard or drippings. Yield: 6 servings.

Honey Apple Sauce Rolls

Spicy With Cinnamon, Plump With Raisins

Enjoy buns fresh out of the oven, hot and spicily fragnant with cinnamon? Revel in rolls with a deep candy-like topping of honey and pecans? Relish roll-ups filled with fat raisins and brown sugared-apple sauce? Then you'll go for these Honeys! And so will the family and whoever else is lucky enough to be around when you serve them.

They take a little time to make because they're yeast rolls that must rise feather light. But they're worth the waiting! So fix them for a late Sunday brunch. Or for Saturday supper. Or as a special tea time treat on a rainy day (those delicious whiffs from the oven!). The rolls are wonderful eating any time and especially so served with glasses of chilled apple juice.

And, speaking of apples, it's canned apple sauce that gives good apple flavor to the rolls. It's canned apple sauce that helps keep the rolls moist and fresh for a second heating — if any are left over (which seems unlikely). The recipe is basically simple . . . just follow it, step by step, until the triumphant moment you turn the Honeys from the pan, glistening brown, a feast for eyes and taste:

Honey Apple Sauce Rolls

½ cup milk
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons shortening
1 package dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 egg, beaten
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
4 tablespoons butter, melted
2 cups canned apple sauce
2 teaspoons cinnamon
1 cup seedless raisins
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons honey
¼ cup dark brown sugar
1 cup pecan halves

Scald milk; pour over sugar, salt and shortening, stir until dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water; add to milk mixture. Add egg; mix. Gradually add flour, mixing to smooth dough. Knead on lightly floured board until smooth and satiny. Shape into ball, place in greased bowl and grease top. Cover. Let rise in warm place until double in bulk. Combine 2 tablespoons butter, apple sauce and cinnamon. Simmer 10 minutes to thicken, stirring occasionally. Cool; add raisins and lemon rind. Place remaining 2 tablespoons butter in 9"x9"x2" pan; add honey and brown sugar, sprinkle with pecans. Roll dough into rectangle 17" x9" and spread with apple sauce mixture. Roll up jelly roll fashion starting with 17" edge and cut in 16 slices. Place rolls cut side down in pan. Cover; let rise in warm place until double in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375°F., 30-35 minutes. Serve hot. Yields 16 rolls.

Crunchy Pineapple Cranberry Mold A Festive Buffet Supper Salad

This colorful salad will fit into almost any menu.

Molded fruit salads look so refreshing and will look pretty as a picture on your table. Golden pineapple, cranberries, oranges and nuts are the ingredients encased in this lemon-flavored mold. It is a perfect combination for a buffet supper featuring turkey, chicken or baked ham.

CRUNCHY PINEAPPLE CRANBERRY MOLD

1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple
Water
2 packages lemon-flavored gelatin
½ cup lemon juice
3 tablespoons shredded or chopped orange peel
3 cups whole cranberry sauce (canned or fresh)
½ cup chopped walnuts

Drain syrup from pineapple and add enough water to make 1½ cups liquid. Heat to boiling and pour over gelatin. Stir until completely dissolved. Stir in pineapple and remaining ingredients in order given. Turn into rinsed 8-inch ring mold. Chill until firm. Dip mold in hot water for about 15 seconds. Invert over serving plate to unmold. Garnish as shown with pineapple slices, salad greens and holly leaves. Serve with a fluffy dressing. Serves 8 to 10.

Homemade Pectin And Apple Jelly Stock

It is possible to make pectin at home, but it is likely to be much more trouble than it is worth. Results are more dependable when the powdered or liquid pectin sold in grocery stores are used. However, apple jelly stock can be used (instead of pectin) cup for cup with the juice of fruit which needs more pectin for jellying.

Apple jelly stock is made by cooking sound, tart, hard-ripe sliced apples (without removing peel or core) until soft in water to barely cover and then letting juice drip through cotton flannel or several layers of cheese cloth. It may be canned for future use. Canned unsweeten juice is excellent for making jelly as needed. It is used just as if fresh.

Botanically the tomato is a fruit, legally and by courtesy of the U. S. Supreme Court it is a vegetable.

It was not until after 1830 that tomatoes became generally popular as a food in U. S. A. and even at that late date there were people who thought them poisonous.

If Jelly Is Contrary About Leaving Jar

Jelly can not be turned from a Mason jar, but is easily removed from a shoulderless half pint.

(a) Run point of thin knife around inside of jar, holding it close to the glass. Go just deep enough to loosen jelly at top.

(b) Run knife all way to bottom of jar and gently press it against jelly to make room for air to push down.

(c) Invert jar and let jelly slide into dish.

Old-fashioned Cherry Pie

quick and easy with Lucky Leaf instant fruit pie fillings

Nothing to mix. Nothing to add. Just spoon Lucky Leaf right from can to crust. Cover with top crust. Bake until golden brown. One-crust pies are easy, too. You get all the fresh fruit juices and flavor. An exclusive Lucky Leaf process seals them in—keeps fruit plump and firm.

Bake your family's favorite tonight. Choose from all these fruits and berries:

APPLE • BLUEBERRY • CHERRY • STRAWBERRY • BLACKBERRY
RAISIN • PEACH • PINEAPPLE • BLACK RASPBERRY • APRICOT

Enjoy Lucky Leaf apple sauce, apple slices and apple juice, too

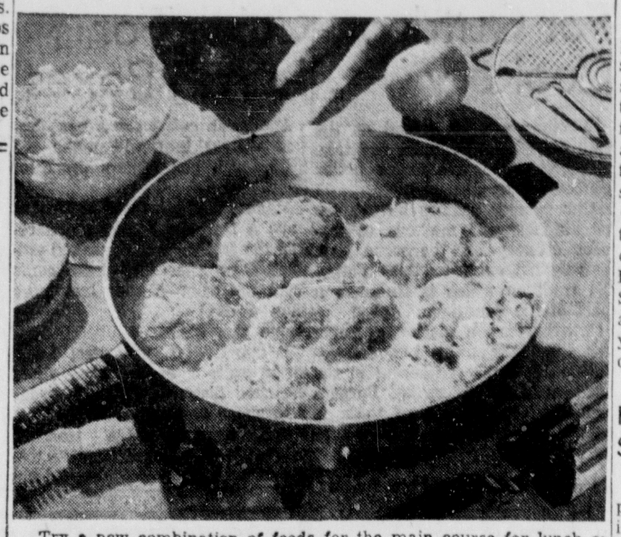

Surprise Beef Burger

Surprise the children during their next lunch-hour. Prepare beef burgers with a slice of dill pickle hidden in the center. Wrap a slice of bacon around each beef burger patty. Brown the patties in lard or drippings in a frying-pan. Cover and cook slowly for 25 minutes.

Cooking Frozen Meat

Slow cooking—that's a must when broiling frozen steaks and chops. Thick frozen steaks and chops must be broiled more slowly than defrosted ones in order that the meat will be cooked to the desired degree of doneness and not become too brown on the outside.

Surprise Patties For Lunch

Try a new combination of foods for the main course for lunch or supper. Creamed cottage cheese, blended with several vegetables and seasonings, forms the basis of Surprise Patties which are tasty and easy to prepare. The food budget will be favored too, for the cost of the ingredients is low.

Many homemakers realize the versatility of cottage cheese. Used from the first course of a meal to the delightful desserts that can be made with this fine dairy food as an ingredient, it gives eating pleasure at budget price, and supplies food nutrients that are important to every meal. Cottage cheese is rich in calcium and protein and it can be used as the protein food in the main course of meatless meals. Prepare Surprise Patties soon for lunch or supper, and be ready for the expressions of approval from the family.

SURPRISE PATTIES

1 small onion
¼ cup finely grated green pepper
1 medium carrot
Sprigs of parsley
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 cups creamed cottage cheese (1 pound)
½ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 tablespoons water
Cracker or cereal crumbs
3 tablespoons butter

Grate onion, pepper and carrot very fine; chop parsley fine and crumble bread. Mix vegetables into cottage cheese, then seasonings. Blend in bread crumbs. Mix well and shape into patties. Beat egg with water. Dip patties into egg, then into finely rolled cracker or cereal crumbs, into egg again and once more into crumbs. Melt butter in skillet and fry patties over medium heat quickly on both sides. Serve with broiled tomatoes, if you wish. Makes 4 servings. May be served with sauce.

If Jelly Is Cloudy

Maybe:

(a) Fruit was too green. Try it hard-ripe next time.

(b) Fruit was cooked too long. 'Til tender is enough.

(c) Too much woman power was used when squeezing juice from fruit. For "Sunday" jelly, let juice take time to drip through cotton flannel bag. Don't squeeze. (Do put what's left in bag through sieve or food mill to remove seed and skin. Makes good jam.) For "Everyday" jelly, (not quite as clear as "Sunday"), spread square of cotton flannel over mouth of bowl. Put prepared fruit in center, fold one side of cloth over another to keep fruit from falling out, then twist ends of cloth in opposite direction.

If Jelly Molds

Container not properly sealed. Pour jelly boiling hot and quickly seal with regular home canning cap.

Note: Mold can be dangerous. It is safe to eat jelly or jam which has only a small amount of mold. It is not safe to taste that which is covered with a heavy growth of mold. Mold is not harmful to health but it can, under certain conditions, pave the way for the growth of dangerous bacteria.

Attractive Meat Garnish

Steam prunes, apricots, and whole figs. Alternate their placements on a skewer. Brush with melted butter and reheat them in a moderately hot oven (400°F.). Serve skewered fruit as a meat accompaniment.

If Jelly Is Low In Fruit Flavor

Usually caused by: (a) Fruit with little flavor. Try highly flavored fruit next time. (b) Long storage. A year is enough. (c) Warm storage. The cooler, the darker, the drier the storage space, the better. (This applies to color too.)

Gravy "Trains" Rice

Here's a dandy way to prepare rice to go with left-over slices of Sunday roast. Rice'n beef gravy make it seem like two company dinners in a row. Chop 1 medium onion and ½ medium green pepper. Over medium heat lightly brown the onion, pepper and 1⅓ cups packaged pre-cooked rice (5-ounce package) in ¼ cup shortening, stirring frequently. Blend in 1 can (1¼ cups) beef gravy, ½ cup water, 2 tablespoons diced pimento, 1 teaspoon salt and dash of black pepper. Bring quickly to a boil over high heat; fluff once or twice with a fork. Cover; simmer over low heat about 10 minutes. 4 servings.

If Jelly Is Rubberlike

Probably:

(a) Under-ripe fruit used. Should be firm-ripe.

(b) Jelly cooked too long. Watch clock when using powdered or bottled pectin. If no pectin is added, cook to jellifying stage. That is when two drops merge and slide off side of spoon.

If Jars Do Not Seal

When instructions for hot or vacuum sealing are followed, the lids will be concave when jars are cold. If, on the other hand, jelly or jam cools too much or time is lost in applying lids and bands, a vacuum seal will not be made.

However, if the jar and lid are sterile and the jelly too hot for mold to live on it, and the jar is quickly closed, the lid and band will (if the band is screwed tightly enough) keep the jar closed airtight. But should there be a doubt about this it is best to remove band and lid and cover jelly or jam with hot paraffin. Put lid and band back on jar.

Chicken Whiz Your Sandwiches

Does your family get hunger pangs at odd hours? These hot sandwiches are guaranteed to bring speedy relief. They're also quick to make when you're caught short for time and your family is pacing about like hungry tigers. Lightly toast 4 slices of bread (or 2 buns, split). Blend the contents of 1 can (5-ounce size) boned chicken or turkey and ¼ cup processed plain cheese spread; spoon on toast. Broil slowly until hot and bubbling. Served with your favorite beverage, these will probably result in your being sent back to make another four!

Hot Or Vacuum Sealing

Means jellies and jams are poured boiling hot into jars and immediately sealed with regular home canning caps. Shoulderless half pint and pint jars are best for this purpose. A Vacuum Seal won't prevent weeping, but it will, if jars and lids are sterile, prevent fermentation and molding. Then too, it is the quickest and easiest way to put up jelly—jam too!

Chipped Beef Luncheon

For a hot yet spring-like luncheon, serve creamed chipped beef over potato dumplings. Complete the meal with a tossed salad, hard rolls, and lemon cake.

If Jelly Ferments

When jelly weeps and breaks through the paraffin or when paraffin is not properly applied to make an airtight seal, yeasts grow on jelly and cause it to ferment.

Hot Appetizers

Bacon makes the appetizers. For a delightful hot treat, wrap bacon strips around stuffed olives or oysters. Broil at a moderate temperature until the bacon is done. Serve imediately.

Custard Sauce Enhances Fruit Desserts

The old fashioned dessert, Prune Whip, is still much in favor. A suggested variation is to bake the whip and serve it with a creamy well flavored custard sauce.

A good, thin custard used as a sauce over most fruit is a perfect complement to the tarter flavor of the fruit. The fact that fruit is important in the diet is well known. When serving fruit with a custard sauce, you increase the eating pleasure, and at the same time, add the important nutrients of milk protein, minerals and vitamins. Milk used as an ingredient in cooking gives you additional food value in any course in which it is used.

BAKED PRUNE WHIP WITH CUSTARD SAUCE

1 cup cut-up prunes (cooked, drained and pitted)
3 tablespoons confectioners sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Mix prunes, sugar, salt and lemon juice. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, then carefully fold in prune mixture. Pour into round 1-quart casserole. Set in pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven 350°F. for 30 to 35 minutes. Serve with Custard Sauce. Makes 6 servings.

CUSTARD SAUCE

2 cups milk
3 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk in top of double boiler. Beat egg yolks slightly, stir in sugar and salt. Add a little of the hot milk to egg mixture, stirring to blend. Return to double boiler and cook over hot not boiling water, stirring constantly, until mixture coats a spoon, about 7 to 8 minutes. Remove at once from hot water, cool and stir in vanilla. Makes 2 cups custard sauce.

Magic Cookies Are Easy Picnic Lunch Dessert

NO PICNIC MENU IS COMPLETE without plenty of cookies, not only for dessert at the picnic feast, but for nibbling afterward. You can make a big batch in a jiffy with sweetened condensed milk and peanut butter, plus one other ingredient, such as nuts or raisins. They are crunchy delights that everybody will like.

Be sure to use sweetened condensed milk, not evaporated. The rich, concentrated blend of fresh milk and sugar known as sweetened condensed milk is necessary to make this simple, failure-proof recipe work.

MAGIC PICNIC COOKIES

1¼ cups (15-oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
½ cup peanut butter

Any one of the six ingredients listed below:

2 cups raisins	2 cups bran flakes
2 cups corn flakes	1 cup chopped nut meats
3 cups shredded coconut	2 cups chopped dates

Mix sweetened condensed milk, peanut butter, and any one of the six ingredients listed above. Drop by teaspoonfuls onto well-greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) for 12 minutes or until brown. Remove from pan at once. Makes about 30 cookies. (ANS)

Plan Ahead For Outdoor Cookery

Whether you cook food on the spot or pack it at home and take it along, it always tastes better cooked in the open.

Our pioneer settlers have given us old-fashioned methods of outdoor cookery and barbecue lore, so why not carry on this wonderful tradition which is so much a part of the American family?

4—Completion of the street improvement program planned for Central Avenue, Quality, Miller, Wood, Walnut and other streets of the town.

5—A continued business-like conduct of the affairs of the town and a progressive approach to all the town's problems.

Commissioner Wilt is completing four terms, three successive and a previous one.

W.Va. Legion Commander Visits Moorefield Post

MOOREFIELD — Jester Phillips, Elkins, West Virginia Department Commander of the American Legion, told the members and guests of the John M. Golladay Post that "America must keep strong and that the Legion must not weaken in their fight against Communists," at a banquet held at the Legion hall.

Department Commander Phillips, making a routine visit to the local post, also told members of the Legion and the guests that the organization had spent $125 million on child welfare work since the beginning of the program in 1922. He also gave a report on the administrative details of the Department and stated that there is a need for more members in the organization. Phillips congratulated the John M. Golladay Post on the occasion of it's 37th birthday which was in March. He urged the members to attend the state convention in Huntington next month.

The Department Commander also told of the progress of the Legion's rehabilitation program for disabled veterans. In closing he reminded the members that it is their duty as well as their privilege to go to the polls and vote in the primary election next Tuesday.

R. M. Gamble presided at the meeting as master of ceremonies and Mayor Presley W. Clarke officially welcomed the Department Commander and his party to Moorefield. Present at the banquet were the post members and their wives. Special recognition was given to Mrs. Elizabeth McNeill Baker and Miss Marjorie Crites as the two female members of the Post. Both served in the Navy's WAVES during World War II.

Replica Of 100-Year-Old Locomotive To Be Used In Piedmont Celebration

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—A model of a locomotive of 100 years ago will be brought to Piedmont by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to take part in "Foot of the Mountain" Pageant Monday thru Saturday, May 21-26.

The engine is a replica of the first locomotive to pull a train from the East Coast into what was then Wheeling, Va. on January 12, 1853, following the completion of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks to the Ohio River.

Old 99 and its coach will be used in the Piedmont celebration to portray a "stopover" of B&O officials and their greetings by costumed residents of Piedmont. Other scenes will be the burning of the B&O shops and the capture of the train, by a handful of confederate "Rebs," from over 130 Federals, during the Civil War.

Rangers To Be Feature

McNeil's Rangers will be featured with horses and a mock battle will be staged in which the Federals fire on their own people.

An interesting sidelight on Old 99 is the fact that the locomotive originally was constructed for a pageant in Wheeling, W. Va. in 1936 and first was used by French Sensabaugh, the director of the pageant. Now, 20 years later, Sensabaugh and his wife, Maryhelen, will celebrate their 20th wedding anniversary and their reunion with "Old 99". Sensabaugh is director of the Piedmont celebration, also.

This model was built by the B&O to take part in pageants and parades. The locomotive and its tender are mounted on a truck chassis. In addition, there is a model of a railroad passenger coach of the same era, which is mounted on a trailer behind the locomotive. The complete model train is 49 feet long, more than 7 feet wide and almost 11 feet high.

Built In 1852-1854

The engine is modeled after one of eight "Dutch Wagon" locomotives built during the period 1852 and 1854. In that day, these were the last word in passenger locomotives on the B&O.

One of them was chosen to haul the first two special trains over the B&O line when it was opened to Wheeling. On these trains were the governors of Maryland and Virginia, as well as senators, congressmen, legislators and other dignitaries.

Like the original, the model is painted in the bright colors that were typical of railroad locomotives and trains in the mid-19th century. The locomotive is red, gray and black and the coach is bright yellow with red trim.

The star of many parades and pageants, the locomotive model is shipped around the country in its own special-built freight car.

Potomac State College Plans Twelve-Week Summer Session

Registrations Open June 11

KEYSER — A twelve-week summer session will again be offered at Potomac State College, with registration slated for Monday, June 11, according to an announcement from Dean K. S. McKee.

Bulletins announcing prospective courses and requirements are now available at the office of the dean.

Classes and laboratories will be conducted five days a week during the first six weeks session (June 12-July 20) and six days a week during the second term (July 24-August 25).

A student may register for either of the two terms, (registration dates being June 11 and July 23), or for both terms. He will be able to earn 6-7 hours of credit in each term. That is, he may carry as many as two lecture courses each term, each course giving three hours of credit; or, he may carry one lecture course, (3 hours) and one laboratory course (4 hours) each term. Only one laboratory course is allowed to be carried in any one term. Thus a student attending the full summer session may earn 12-14 hours of college credit.

High School graduation, or its equivalent with certain courses, is the standard for admission. Consideration will be given veterans who cannot satisfy the requirements. Students seeking admission to the summer session are asked to submit a transcript of their high school record for evaluation by the registrar.

Regular members of the college staff will be instructors for courses in the following fields: arts and sciences, pre-law, pre-education, physical education, home economics, engineering, basic engineering, pre-dental, medical technology, business administration and agriculture.

Courses to be offered include biology general biological science, English, general physical science, history, inorganic chemistry, mathematics, organic chemistry, physics, psychology, shorthand, typing and zoology.

Courses for which there is not a sufficient demand, will be deleted.

Residence halls will be open for the convenience of students desiring to live on the campus.

Fees for resident students are $25 for either term, or $30 for the 12 weeks session. Non-resident students fees will be $35 for either term, or $40 for the 12 weeks. Board and room will be provided at the rate of $140 for the 12 weeks. Nominal fees will be charged in addition for laboratories and the like.

Westernport Parking Lot Pays Its Way

WESTERNPORT — Indebtedness on Westernport's municipal parking lot at Main and Washington Streets has been reduced $6,120 in two and a half years, besides the interest the town has paid on the loan.

The purchase price and cost of preparing the lot for parking totaled $25,000. The reduced balance also includes the money the town has saved in the purchase of gasoline for the town's motor vehicles since a gasoline pump was placed on the lot.

Mayor Okey E. Michael also revealed that according to the present figures, the town should have the parking lot indebtedness paid off in 10 years.

Mayor Michael stated that the use of another parking lot on Church Street is becoming more popular.

The request of Howard Trenum, a street department employee, that he be given a 30-day leave of absence was referred to Bert Reed, water superintendent, for action.

Lewis W. Hicks, acting town clerk, stated that 787 annual garbage cards have been sold. A list of delinquents has been given to the street superintendent.

The street committee was authorized to secure quotations for grading, taring, and chipping Central Avenue, Quality and Miller Streets. Two catch basins have already been installed.

It was ordered that a conference with the Allegany Board of Education be secured to request a sidewalk in front of the new Bruce High School on Philos Avenue.

All candidates who are planning to seek office are invited to a meeting of the Mayor and Commissioners Wednesday at 8 p. m. A representative of Glace and Glace, engineering firm, will be present to report on progress of construction at the filtration plant and auxiliary water storage tank.

Market Climbs As Rails, Aircrafts Show Strength

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP) — Well founded strength in aircrafts and railroads today formed the basis for a moderate rise in the stock market.

Good plus signs also were found in steels, motors, oils, and chemicals. Building materials and aluminums encountered some profit-taking.

Railroads were favored after publication of a report showing freight carloadings at the best rate of the year. Aircrafts were firm on the basis of the House Appropriations Committee approval of a defense budget running to nearly 34 billion dollars.

Chrysler closed up 1⅛ at 68½ as the ninth most active issue of the day. During the day it sold as low as 66½ in the midst of rumors that the dividend would be cut. It improved rapidly toward the close, however, and finished within ⅛ of its top price of the session. After the close, directors declared the usual dividend of 75 cents, although first quarter sales dipped 23 per cent.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 90 cents at $190.-90. The railroads component of the average added $1.90 at $152.50, highest since 1929. Industrials were up 60 cents and utilities gained 10 cents.

Benguet Consolidated Mining was the day's most active issue up ⅛ at 2¼ on 77,300 shares, and it was followed by General Motors up ½ at 44½. Southern Production off ⅛ at 38¼, Continental Copper off ¼ at 15½, and Union Oil of California off 1 at 59¾.

Pageant Sets Arrive For Centennial

PIEDMONT — Over 38 trunks, scenery and electrical equipment have arrived here and are being rapidly unpacked for use in the stirring spectacle, "Foot of the Mountain," to be presented nightly May 21-26 to celebrate the incorporation of the town. The gigantic show is complete with a dazzling prologue of drum and bugle corps, costumed characters with flags, girl drill teams, horses and the Court of "Miss Piedmont" and the "Little Queen."

There will be scenes of the early Shawnee Indians with their teepees, camp fires and trophies of the chase. Pioneer Westernport will be depicted as well as a wedding of the time. Covered wagons, cows, horses and even dogs and chickens will be employed. Nothing is being spared to make the production realistic.

The influence of the B and O Railroad Company on the area will be geographically portrayed. Replicas of trains will be used and the cast will ride in the coaches. Re-enactment of McNeill's Raiders, the burning of the B and O Shops and the battle between the blues and grays will be shown.

Early school scenes will lend humor, as well as the dancing of the Virginia Reel and the Charleston in later scenes.

"Foot of the Mountain" has a cast of over 500 residents of the Tri-Towns in rehearsal under the direction of French Sensabaugh of Cumberland. Sensabaugh has had over 20 years experience in show business and has staged celebrations throughout the United States. He says that he is impressed with the history of the area and particularly with the enthusiasm and cooperation of the people in the Tri-Towns.

Miss Mary Walsh Is Guest Of Classics Club At PSC

KEYSER—Guest speaker for the final meeting of the Classics Club at Potomac State College was Miss Mary Walsh, librarian at the Cumberland Public Library. The meeting held last night in the College Library was well attended by faculty members of the college and students as well as other citizens of Keyser.

"Tartuffe," a comedy by the French dramatist Moliere, was the subject of Miss Walsh's review.

Tartuffe is a religious hypocrite and imposter who uses religion as a means of gaining money, covering deceit, and promoting self-indulgence.

Jean Baptiste Requelin was the real name of Moliere, who lived in 1622-1673.

The meeting last night marks the close of the second year for the Classics Club, which is sponsored by Miss Mary F. Shipper, college librarian, for the purpose of acquainting interested persons in the "100 Great Books" on the St. John's College list.

imperial IS THE FIRST MARGARINE UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED TO TASTE LIKE THE HIGH-PRICED SPREAD!

You're going to be seeing a brand new product at your grocer's today . . . a product so superior that it carries a guarantee never before made – in all of margarine history. Imperial is the first margarine guaranteed to bring you the tantalizing flavor formerly found only in the expensive spread for bread.

IMPERIAL'S GOT THAT FLAVOR

Flavor is what's been missing in margarine. And flavor is what Lever Brothers devoted seven years to achieve. It wasn't hard to make Imperial spread smoother and easier than any other margarine. And it wasn't hard to make Imperial as nutritious as even the most expensive spread you can buy. The trick was flavor. And Imperial is the first margarine to capture and hold that unmistakable flavor everybody loves.

YOU AGREE—OR LEVER BROTHERS RETURNS YOUR MONEY

We know you may find it hard to believe that a margarine could live up to all we claim for Imperial. So to make it possible for you to try Imperial without any risk, Lever Brothers unconditionally guarantees that if Imperial doesn't taste like the high-priced spread to you – they'll return every penny you spent to try it.

P.S. Like the high-priced spread, Imperial is delicate and perishable. So to protect its perfect flavor, always keep Imperial in your refrigerator.

Bob Friend Cracks Cincinnati's Six-Game String, 5-1

Long, Thomas Belt Homers For Pirates

Buc Ace Scores Third Triumph; Nuxhall Loser

CINCINNATI, May 3 (AP)—Home runs by Dale Long and Frank Thomas, combined with five-hit pitching by Bob Friend, gave Pittsburgh a 5-1 victory today over the Cincinnati Redlegs, ending the local club's six-game winning streak.

Bob Friend

Friend, who racked up his third success against one loss this season, did not allow a hit until the sixth inning. The Cincinnati batters, who had 17 home runs during the six-game winning streak, got one today—that by Ed Bailey in the ninth.

Joe Nuxhall, the most winning hurler on the Redleg staff in 1955, lasted only until the fourth. He was succeeded by Hal Jeffcoat when Roberto Clemente singled to open the inning.

In the first, after two were down, Dale Long singled and Thomas drove the ball over the left field wall. Then in the third, Dick Groat looped a single to right and Long drove the ball over the centerfield wall. It was his sixth homer of the year.

Nashua To Seek $37,000 Purse

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Nashua will fall a few thousand dollars short of Citation's record as the all-time money winning champion if the four-year-old wins Saturday's Grey Lag Handicap at a mile and a furlong at Jamaica.

Nashua has won $1,040,515 in 22 starts as compared to the total of $1,085,760 banked by Citation when he retired for keeps in 1951. The difference is only $45,245. The $50,000 added Grey Lag probably will have a net value of about $37,000 to the winner, depending on how many horses go to the post.

Orioles Lose To Tribe, 7-1, In Night Tilt

Busby, Rosen, Garcia Star For Cleveland

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP)—Jim Busby, who hit a homer, double and single, and Al Rosen each knocked in three runs while Mike Garcia held the Baltimore Orioles to six hits for a 7-1 victory by the Cleveland Indians tonight.

Busby's second homer of the season in the ninth came with Earl Averill on base. Rosen's single in the first inning cleared the loaded bases to provide Garcia with a comfortable start toward his first triumph of 1956 after one setback.

The run against Garcia in the first inning might have been averted. Bob Boyd beat out a high bouncer to Rosen and scooted to third on Dave Philley's hit knocked down by second baseman Bob Avila. He scored when first baseman Vic Wertz juggled the ball for an error on what would have been an inning-ending double play on Gus Triandos' grounder.

Sixth CCC Invitation Golf Tourney Is Set June 28-29

25 Handicap Is Limit Set For Entries

Second Old Export Bowl Is Donated For Women's Event

The sixth annual women's invitation golf tournament of the Cumberland Country Club will be staged Thursday and Friday, June 28 and 29, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Somerville Nicholson, chairman of the publicity committee for this year's event.

The tourney will be a two-day 36-hole medal play affair and the players will tee off on both days at 8:30 a.m.

Because of the large number of entries expected the Cumberland Country Club Golf Association is limiting entrants to players with handicaps of 25 and under, based on the five best scores of 1956.

Miss Mary Ann Downey, of Baltimore, who will be playing with the United States Curtis Cup team in England this year, retired the first Old Export Bowl by winning it for the third successive year in 1955. Mrs. John McCuskey, Clarksburg, W. Va., won a leg on the bowl in 1951 and Mrs. Nancy Bycott, Wheeling, W. Va., was the 1952 winner.

The Cumberland Brewing Company is donating a second Old Export Bowl (sterling silver punch bowl) for the 1956 event. This trophy, like the first one, must be won by the same golfer three times, not necessarily in succession, to become one's permanent possession.

The CCC Invitational is the biggest golf event of its kind in Western Maryland and usually attracts 100 to 150 players from Maryland and nearby states.

Deadline for entries is Monday, June 25.

CCC INVITATION TOURNEY COMMITTEE — Pictured are the members of the committee that will have charge of the Cumberland Country Club's sixth annual invitation golf tournament to be held here Thursday and Friday, June 28-29. The tourney is the biggest of its kind in Western Maryland and attracts between 100 and 150 players from Maryland and nearby states. The winner receives the Old Export Bowl, donated by the Cumberland Brewing Company. The committee, left to right: SEATED—Mrs. G. William Bibby, Mrs. Somerville Nicholson, Mrs. Royce Hodges, Mrs. Fuller B. Whitworth and Mrs. Gordon L. Bowie. STANDING—Mrs. Richard Trevaskis, Mrs. Harold Sebra, Mrs. John Moberly, Mrs. George M. Young, Miss Madolin D. Norris, Mrs. William H. Ryan and Mrs. Helen Vandegrift. Members not present when picture was taken were Mrs. Edgar Kendall and Mrs. Helen Wise.

Former Cleveland Pitcher And Wife Given Sentences

CLEVELAND, May 3 (AP)—Don Black, 38, onetime pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, and his wife were sentenced today to 30 days in the workhouse on charges of contributing to the neglect of their two children. Juvenile Court Judge Albert A. Woldman held up execution of the sentence pending psychiatric examinations of the couple.

The Black's two daughters, 14 and 15, ran away from home April 9 and later were picked up by police. Officers said they found the parents too drunk to talk coherently.

In 1948, Black collapsed at home plate during a game here when a blood vessel burst in his brain. He was near death for weeks.

In 1947 he pitched a no-hitter against the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles defeated the Knights of Columbus, 9-1, and the Loyal Order of Moose downed Celanese, 9-4, to register their second wins of the season yesterday in the Rocking Chair Softball League.

Wet grounds forced postponement of the B.P.O. Elks-Outdoor Club contest at Allegany Field.

Steve Hardesty and Jim Gaffney limited the Knights of Columbus to three hits while the Eagles solved the offerings of "Bud" Law for 10 blows, including a homer and double by Harry Minnicks and a triple and double each by Jim Fradiska and Gaffney. Deremer, Snider and Dunn collected the Knights' three bingles.

Fradiska excelled at short for the Eagles and started three double plays. Harden of the Caseys turned in a nice running catch in right-center of a long drive from Fradiska's bat.

Joe Niland hurled the Moose to victory over Celanese, scattering eight hits. The Moose gathered eight hits off Wilhelm and Wolz, including a homer by "Bud" Young in the 6th and two safeties by Toar Speir. Wilhelm, losing pitcher, issued eight bases on balls. The scores:

Country Slaughter Leads K. C. To Win Over Yankees

Double In Ninth Paves Way To 8-7 Triumph For A's

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP) — Enos Slaughter, still dangerous at 40, doubled and scored the winning run on Harry Simpson's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning today as Kansas City outslugged the New York Yankees 8-7 in their first meeting of the season.

After leading at one stage 5-0, the A's saw the Yanks tie the score at 7-7 in the fifth before they put on their winning spurt. Slaughter, former Yankee and St. Louis Cardinal, doubled to open the ninth and took third when Gus Zernial beat out a bunt past the mound. Simpson's fly to Mickey Mantle was deep enough to score the old "Country Boy" from third.

Joe Ginsberg hit a two-run homer for the A's in the five-run second inning and Mickey Mantle hit his seventh, Hank Bauer his fourth and Yogi Berra his fifth for the Yanks. Bauer and Berra each hit into the stands with one man on in the fifth.

The victory went to Ed Burtschy, who replaced Art Ceccarelli in the fifth and blanked the Yanks the rest of the way with only one hit. Reliefer Tom Morgan, third Yank pitcher, was the loser.

Kansas City chased starter Don Larsen with five runs in the second inning on Ginsberg's two-run homer, Slaughter's double, four singles and an error by Yogi Berra.

Manager Casey Stengel shook up his Yankee infield again, moving Gil McDougald to shortstop, shifting Martin to second and restoring Andy Carey to third base. Rookie Jerry Lumpe was benched.

Ft. Ashby Tops Paw Paw, 6-5

A three-run rally in the final inning enabled Fort Ashby High School to come from behind and eke out a 6-5 decision over Paw Paw High School's Pirates yesterday at Fort Ashby.

The win was the first of the season in four starts for the Eagles while Paw Paw suffered its fourth loss against a single victory.

Paul Chaney's second two-bagger of the game sent Jay Boyland and Jim Thompson home to tie the score in the "big seventh" and Harold Abe's squeeze play bunt scored Chaney with the deciding tally.

Ed Linn went the route for Fort Ashby, yielded six hits and fanned seven. Ray Largent and Phil Hamilton shared four of the losers' hits, the latter rapping a triple and two-bagger. Gene Jamison struck out 13 Fort Ashby batsmen and gave up seven hits. Gary Iser and Chaney had two hits each for the Eagles. Box:

Mongold Fans 16 As Jackets Beat Vikings

Win 9-0, Tie Keyser For PVC Lead; Elks Trim Franklin, 12-2

Harold Mongold tossed a one-hitter and struck out 16 batsmen as Moorefield High School defeated Petersburg High's Vikings at Petersburg yesterday by the score of 9-0 and tied Keyser High School for the leadership of the Potomac Valley Conference. The deadlocked leaders have 8-0 records.

Dick Huffman's single in the second inning was the only safety yielded by Mongold who notched his fourth victory of the season. He fanned the side in the second, fifth and sixth innings.

Coach Jonathan Paugh's aggregation collected ten hits off Turner and Keplinger. Jimmy Vetter, leadoff man, homered in the first inning and Jimmy Grafton hit for the circuit with two aboard in the fourth. Mongold and Allen Wilkins smacked triples.

The loss was the sixth in seven outings in the P.V.C. for Petersburg.

Elks Defeat Franklin

Ralph Shaffer turned in a four-hit pitching performance as Elk Garden's Elks walloped Franklin High's Panthers at Franklin to the tune of 12-2.

Coach Paul Kalbaugh's outfit slammed the offerings of two Franklin hurlers for 15 hits, including a homer by Tommy Milavec, who garnered three hits and shared batting honors with Ronnie Coleman.

The win was Elk Garden's fourth against two defeats. Franklin is now 2-2 in the conference.

Mathias Wins First

Mathias High School crashed the win column for the first time by taking the measure of Capon Bridge, at Mathias, by the score of 14-8.

Ivan Mongold rapped a triple, double and single, drove in three runs and scored three himself while George Hibbard featured in a relief role for the winners. The latter relieved Jesse Riddle in the 4th with the score knotted at 8-8 and set the opposition down with no runs and one hit, fanned five and received credit for the win. Mathias took advantage of five bases on balls and five hit batsmen.

Kenneth Miller led the Capon Bridge attack with three hits—including a two-run homer in the fourth.

Anti-Trust Trial Against IBC Ends

NEW YORK, May 3—(INS)—The curtain came down today on the Federal Government's anti-trust suit against the International Boxing Club and Judge Sylvester Ryan reserved decision on the case.

The trial, one of the shortest anti-trust tests in history, wound up after nine days of arguments.

Gernert, Malzone Homer For Victors

BOSTON, May 3 (AP)—Red Sox righthander Frank Sullivan got two-run homers from Dick Gernert and rookie Frank Malzone to support his six-hitter today as he pitched Boston to a 5-2 victory over Detroit.

The 6-foot, 7-inch Sully looked like he would contribute the second consecutive shutout for the Sox hurling staff until Earl Torgeson crashed a two-run home run into the Boston bullpen in right field in the eighth inning.

Bill Tuttle opened the inning with a single to left and Torgy promptly planted a fastball just out of Jackie Jensen's reach into the warmup area.

In fact, the only run not produced by a homer came for Boston in the fourth when Sullivan himself tagged a double off the wall in left center. Sammy White, who had singled, slid in under Reno Bertoia's high relay throw to score.

Sentinel Win Would Result In 3-Way Tie

Game At Fort Hill Today Set For 3:15; LaSalle At Beall

Allegany versus Fort Hill.

That's the chief attraction today in the Bi-State Baseball Conference as the Campers an Sentinels tangle for the first time this season in a game scheduled for Fort Hill Field at 3:15 o'clock.

Third Of City Series

This game is the third in the triangular series for the city championship. Allegany is out in front by virtue of a 3-1 decision over LaSalle. LaSalle is runner-up with 1-1, having beaten Fort Hill (0-1) by the score of 2-1. The Campers will retain the lead if they win. A Fort Hill victory will result in a three-way tie.

The outcome of this game also has bearing on the Bi-State Conference race in which Fort Hill and LaSalle are tied for first place with 5-1 records.

Fort Hill won both the city and Bi-State titles last year. In the city race Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's 1955 aggregation made a clean sweep of four games. The Hilltoppers beat Allegany by scores of 1-0 and 11-4, Wayne Murray decisioning Don Paye on both occasions. Murray was graduated in June but Paye is still available and owns a 1-0 record to date.

LaSalle's first place co-holders are slated to meet Beall High School in Frostburg today at 3:30.

Valley High School will play host to the Bruce High Bulldogs in Barton at 3:30 while Hyndman High's Hornets play in Mt. Savage at 4 o'clock.

Four Potomac Valley Conference games are on tap today.

Salem At Potomac

Potomac State College will be angling for win No. 7 when it meets Salem College in a West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference contest in Keyser at 2 p. m. Coach John Maiden's Catamounts have an overall record of 6-3 and they've won three and lost one in the conference.

Chisox Bow To Senators

Jim Lemon's Homer Decides Game, 7-4

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Chicago was knocked out of first place tonight by Washington when Jim Lemon smacked a three-run homer with two out in the seventh inning to give the Senators a 7-4 victory over the White Sox.

Bob Chakales pitched brilliant relief to notch his second triumph, dealing Billy Pierce his first defeat after three wins.

Chakales, who limited Baltimore to one hit in 5 1-3 innings Sunday in a relif role, allowed the White Sox only three hits in 7 2-3 innings after supplanting Dean Stone in the second inning.

Chicago clipped Stone for three unearned runs in the first inning but the Senators rebounded with four in the first off Pierce as Pete Runnels smashed a three-run double. The White Sox tied the score at 4-4 with another unearned run off Stone in the second inning.

Ed Yost opened the bottom of the seventh with a single and Dick Tettelbach sacrificed. Karl Olson fanned and Roy Sievers was purposely passed to get at Lemon. The towering outfielder's response was a blast which carried an estimated 475 feet into Griffith Stadium's left field bleachers for his third homer.

The New York Yankees replaced the White Sox in first place despite losing to Kansas City in the afternoon.

Cops Top Gobel For Traffic Fine

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP)—Television comedian George Gobel, here to promote his first movie, "The Birds and the Bees," got a rude tap on the shoulder from his home town Police Department yesterday.

Sandwiched between handshaking and huzzahs was a summons for a traffic fine.

It turned out that more than two years ago, Gobel got a ticket for running a stop light. Since that time, he's zoomed to TV prominence and has been living in California. He said he clean forgot about the ticket.

The Traffic Department didn't. He was served with a warrant and forthwith appeared at traffic headquarters where he forked over a $6 fine and $3 penalty.

17 Slated To Start In 82nd Kentucky Derby Saturday

Winner To Receive $123,550, Needles Is Made 2-1 Favorite

Fabius And Pintor Lea, Calumet Pair, 3-1 Second Choice

By JOHN CHANDLER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3 (AP)—Owners of 18 horses handed over $250 each today to enter the 82nd and richest Kentucky Derby, but lady luck quickly interfered and eliminated Reaping Right before the entry box was slammed shut.

Needles, the rambunctious Florida colt who hates to train in the morning but runs with authority in the afternoon, remained the 2-1 favorite.

Reaping Right and his stablemate Invalidate, both owned by T. A. Grissom, were the first horses entered, 27 minutes after the box opened. At almost that exact moment Reaping Right was out on the sloppy track for a gallop, and suffered a slight injury.

V. R. Wright, the trainer, immediately called the racing secretary's office and said he would have to withdraw the Louisiana derby winner "because I don't want to take any chances with him."

$250 Stays In Kitty

But the entry had been made, and the $250 stays in the kitty.

This means that if all 17 who remain healthy go postward at 4:30 p.m. (EST) Saturday, the 3-year-old classic will be worth $167,650 and the winner gets $123,550.

However, a lot of things have been happening, and nobody would be a bit surprised if some of the other horses didn't come out before it comes time to kick in with the $1,250 fee necessary to start.

The biggest question mark, aside from the weather, appears to be the Calumet Farm entry of Fabius and Pintor Lea.

Pintor Lea had been a doubtful starter with a bad knee, but showed amazing recuperative powers, and trainers Ben and Jimmy Jones decided to enter the colt and see what gives on Saturday.

Fabius, winner of Tuesday's one mile Derby Trial, is listed as a sure starter, and the early odds have the Calumeteers the 3-1 second choice.

However, some are doubtful whether this speedy son of Citation, the 1948 winner, can last that rugged mile and one quarter.

Hartack Undecided

Even the jockey situation is in the air, with Willie Hartack, the nation's top rider last year, named for both horses. But Willie hasn't decided which way to jump.

Robert Wingfield, agent for R. L. Baird, entered the horses and said his boy would take the one Hartack left over.

Calumet has replaced the C. V. Whitney entry of Head Man and Career Boy as second choice, partly because Career Boy is a doubtful starter if the track is "off" and also in view of Head Man's third place finish in the Derby Trial.

Eddie Arcaro is listed for Head Man, while Eric Guerin, who won the race in 1947 with Jeet Pilot, rides Career Boy. Eddie has won five derbies.

Since the winning jockey gets 10 per cent of the net purse, either Arcaro and Guerin, or Hartack and Baird, could split $12,355 provided they go back to the judges first with one of their mounts.

The others entered for the race that will thrill some 100,000 at the track and other millions on TV and radio (CBS, 4:15-4:45 p.m. EST) are:

Count Chic, owned by Dino Lozzi, Seattle; High King, Joe Gavegnano, Boston; No Regrets, W. E. Britt, Clayton, N.M.; Ben A. Jones, property of J. J. Gregory had H. D. Maggio, Chicago; Besomer, Coli MacLeod, Jr., Upperville, Va., and Mrs. George Schneider, Houston, Tex.; Come On Red, Mrs. Helen Kellogg, Evansville, Ind.; Terrang, Rex Ellsworth, Ontario, Calif.; Black Emperor, Hasty House Farms, Mr. and Mrs. Allie Reuben, Toledo, Ohio; Jean Baptiste, Mrs. Lloyd P. Tate, Pinehurst, N.C.; King O' Swords, Reverie Knoll Farm, Freeman Keyes, Chicago and Danville, Va.; and Countermand, Brandywine Stable, Donald P. Ross, Wilmington, Del.

Glass Fiber Boats

OTTAWA, May 3 (AP)—Lifeboats made of matted glass fibers are being tried on Canadian inland waterways, ships. Makers claim they are lighter, stronger and less perishable than wooden boats.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 3 (INS) — After weeks of trying to make up her mind, Jayne Mansfield told me today over the long distance telephone that she has signed a seven-year exclusive contract with 20th Century-Fox, the former home of Marilyn Monroe. She moves there at the termination of her Broadway play "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter."

"It's exactly what I want to do," Jayne said. "I've talked with a number of the people at 20th and I like what they promised me."

20th is expected to buy "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," but Jayne believes her first picture will be John Steinbeck's "Wayward Bus." She is now going to the actors studio where Marilyn studied. She said that she has been working with Karl Malden. "I'm studying dancing, singing and dramatic acting," she said. "20th has promised to build me as one of their important stars."

Anita Ekberg is finishing "Hollywood or Bust" with Martin and Lewis before she takes off for Florence to marry Anthony Steele. In early 1957, Anita and Robert Ryan will be costarred in "Portofino," an original story by Bernie Giller, with John Farrow producing and directing.

John, who has "The Lady and the Prowler" to do first, will take the "Portofino" company to Italy, not far from Monaco, for locations. Portofino is a charming place on the Italian Riviera, and some of the scenes will be filmed there.

William Dozier, who bought the story, says that it was purchased after he saw Ekberg and Ryan together in "Back From Eternity," which they did for John Farrow.

The sudden death of Edward Arnold was a big shock to Henry Fonda, who had set Eddie in one of the top roles in "Twelve Angry Men," Hank's first independent picture.

The picture goes in June and Hank says he has sent the script to Ed Begley, who is doing one of the leads in "Inherit the Wind" in New York, to see if he will take the Arnold role. Eddie, too, was very enthusiastic about "Twelve Angry Men."

These sudden deaths are shockers. It seems lately that every day some old friend answers the summons.

Gloria and Jimmy Stewart are back in town, and Gloria tells me she feels wonderful after her surgery in Chicago. It was a very minor operation.

I asked her when Jimmy, who is in his eighth month of shooting "The Spirit of St. Louis," the Lindbergh story, will finish the picture.

"I stopped asking him last August," Gloria said. "We have no idea."

The twins, Kelly and Judy, celebrate their fifth birthday Monday, and there'll be a cake with all the trimmings.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Jane Froman will divorce Captain John Burn in Las Vegas. She'll establish residence when she appears there at the Desert Inn. He was the one who saved her life in the tragic Lisbon plane crash.

Greg Bautzer is home from New York and Dana Wynter has gone to Rhodesia to visit her family. She hopes to bring them back when she returns in about a week.

No way to win friends and influence people for Shelley Winters to give interviews blasting Hollywood, the town that gave her her first chance.

Alfred Hitchcock will soon be off to Swaziland, South Africa, to look for locations for his next thriller, "Flamingo Feather," a story of political intrigue.

You can expect the marriage of attractive socialite Dolly Walker to charming Henrique (Heinie) Schoendube, of Mexico, within a matter of weeks.

Zsa Zsa Gabor says it was not a caracul coat Hal Mayes gave her, but sable. Says Zsa Zsa, "I don't wear anything but mink or sable." Lucky her!

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Fourth First Timer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Only four owners since 1914 have won the Kentucky Derby with the only horse they nominated. Rex C. Ellsworth of Chino, Calif., became the fourth successful owner when his Swaps beat Nashua in the 1955 Derby at Churchill Downs.

Mary Ann Downey, Mrs. Glick Score In Southern Golf

HOT SPRINGS, Va., May 3 (AP)—A trio of veterans and a comparative newcomer to golf today advanced into tomorrow's semi-finals of the 41st Southern Women's Amateur Tournament.

One of the victims of the quarterfinals was slender Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, a fine competitor with a quarter of a century of golf behind her and perhaps on No. 1 pre-tourney favorite to win this test over the Homestead's 6,312-yard, par 74 Cascades course.

The surviving veterans included Mrs. Maurice Glick and Mary Ann Downey of Baltimore and Mary Pat Janssen of Charlottesville, Va. The newcomer is Wanda Sanches of Baton Rouge, La.

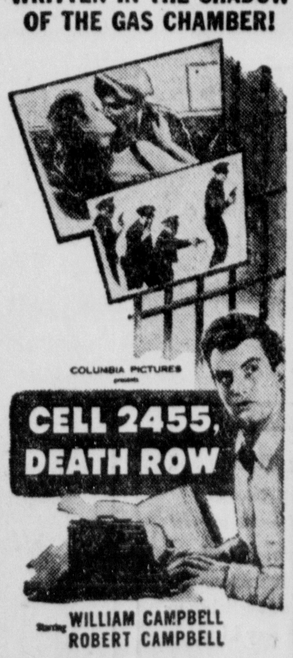

Mrs. Glick bested Miss Kirby in a gruelling battle that ended on the 29th hole, 1 up. Miss Downey eliminated 17-year-old Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., 3 and 2, Miss Janssen edged Sydney Elliott, also of Charlottesville, 2 and 1, Miss Sanches routed Mrs. Sam Byrd of Birmingham, Ala., 7 and 6.

Miss Downey meets Miss Janssen and Mrs. Glick battles Miss Sanches in the semifinal round.

Hash With Mustard

Britain has been in the throes of commercial television for quite some time now and the reports filtering back from that sceptered isle have been confusing. On the one hand, you hear that the commercials are great; on the other, that they're appalling. One minute you hear that the new commercial network is driving the BBC to alleviate its dullness; the next that commercial TV is driving culture into the ground.

At hand I have a communication from my peripatetic correspondent Matt Melke, who has variously reported television to me from such odd places as a G.I. hospital bed in Indiantown Gap, Pa., Korea, and Perth Amboy, and who is now in London.

"As you know," he writes, "Britain has now not one but two television stations which can play at the same time. The Englishman, in other words, cannot just turn his television set on, as he could in the old days. He is now compelled to make a decision. Shall he look at BBC, which has no commercials, or ITV, whatever that means, which has them in abundance?

"We stayed at someone else's home for a week when we first got here and it happened that our stay coincided with the onslaught of the coldest weather of the century. As a result we had to spend our time in the living room where the fire was and in the living room they had a TV set which, unfortunately, they insisted in turning on to make us feel at home.

"The British commercial technique is somewhat different from ours, but it is equally jarring. This is somewhat disconcerting to an American who naturally thinks his own country can produce the world's most nauseating commercials hands down. But where we slip them in when the viewer's guard is down, the British let you have it all at once — bing bing bing bing — you are asked to boil your sheets in soap, buy left-handed cars, smoke stronger cigarets and drink Schweppes.

"This rattles you. You might ignore one commercial but four or five in a row have to make some kind of impression. You are likely to be overpowered with the urge to boil your sheets in Schweppes.

"The British take pride in these things just as we do. 'Isn't it awful,' they say. 'Is it this bad in the United States?'

"My impression is that the BBC also puts on superior programs. They do information type broadcasts with little moving charts that show you what's behind the housing shortage or what a sterling deficit means. ITV on the other hand, leans toward things called 'Gun Law' and 'Isn't it Romantic.'

"A survey over a week's period taken by the Hollowood Program Research Unit and published in "Punch" seems to bear out this impression. BBC presented twice as many serious documentaries and news and discussion type programs and it presented ten times as much live classical music and drama. ITV, on the other hand, presented three hours of movies and variety shows for every one shown on BBC.

"The result? Why each month since the commercial programs started ITV has picked up a larger share of the audience. And in February for the first time, ITV had a larger audience than BBC. How is BBC going to get back its dwindling audience? By adopting the successful formula probably. Fewer documentary or classical music programs and more quiz programs and variety shows. Maybe — although this is too much to hope for — they can even borrow Howdy Doody.

"So our British friends now have a free choice. Where they used to have to take steak or nothing they will soon be able to choose between hash with ketchup or hash with mustard."

Group To Attend Church Sunday

The Cresap Homemakers Club will attend services at the Cresaptown Methodist Church Sunday at 11:30. Plans were formulated at the meeting recently at the church. Announcement was made of the annual garden party June 6 at the home of Mrs. Harry Barton; and College Week for Women, June 18-23, to which Mrs. Harold Lewis was named delegate and Mrs. John Shoup, alternate.

Mrs. Herbert Heineman talked on wild flowers, trees and birds. Mrs. Arthur Ferguson demonstrated floor coverings. Mrs. Ivan Mills showed pictures of paintings in the National Art Gallery, and routine reports were given by Mrs. Royce Johnson. Mrs. Thomas Millar gave the history of the hymn of the month, which was sung by the group. Mrs. Edward Lewis spoke of Blue Cross regulations changes. Roll call was answered with suggestions for next year's program.

Meat Specialty

When preparing to serve smoked tongue in your home, see that there is plenty of gingersnap sauce to serve over the meat. It's a different way to serve this variety meat, and the family will go for this unusual innovation.

Contract Bridge — By B. Jay Becker

QUIZ

You are the dealer, both sides vulnerable, and have opened with one diamond. Partner has responded with one spade. What do you now bid with each of the following four hands?

1. ♠AQ63 ♥K5 ♦AKJ872 ♣9
2. ♠74 ♥AQ6 ♦AQ92 ♣KJ84
3. ♠9 ♥A72 ♦KQJ864 ♣AJ3
4. ♠AQ42 ♥— ♦KQ985 ♣AQ53

Q1. Four spades. This is a powerful rebid by the opening bidder, and alerts partner to the possibility of a slam. It is not, as is sometimes stated, a close-out bid. The responding hand may have had only six points for the spade response, and we want to impress upon him that that little is enough to produce a game. There is therefore the intimation that the opening bidder has at least 20 points, most of which will consist of high cards, with the balance being made up of distributional values. There is a vast difference between the responding hand jumping directly to game in the opening bidder's suit, and the opening bidder jumping to game over partner's response. The former is strictly shutout and denies interest in a slam, but the latter identifies a strong hand including a good trump fit.

Q2. Two clubs. The hand is not good enough to jump to two no trump, which usually guarantees between 17 and 19 points, and is too promising to rebid one no-trump, which is a signoff bid denoting from 12 to 15 points. The neutral bid of two clubs has the advantage of delaying a decision on how far to go until more is learned about partner's hand, at which time the high card values and distribution may be correctly shown.

Q3. Two diamonds. Although the full values of the hand are not represented by the minimum rebid, there is not much hope of a game unless partner voluntarily bids again. It must be remembered that the spade response has detracted from the original evaluation of the hand. If responder had bid one heart or two clubs, thereby adding new values to our hand and confirming previous ones, a three diamond rebid would be in order. Of course, if partner is able to find another bid over the two diamond rebid, we will have to make a constructive bid to balance out our previous underbid.

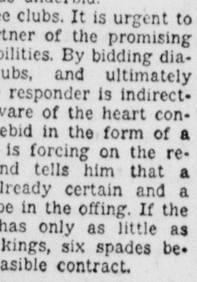

Q4. Three clubs. It is urgent to inform partner of the promising slam possibilities. By bidding diamonds, clubs, and ultimately spades, the responder is indirectly made aware of the heart control. The rebid in the form of a jump shift is forcing on the responder, and tells him that a game is already certain and a slam may be in the offing. If the responder has only as little as two black kings, six spades becomes a feasible contract.

In Memoriam

Shipley—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Ira O. Shipley, who passed away 7 years ago, May 4, 1949.
What would I give to clasp his hand.
His happy face to see,
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me.
LOVING WIFE & FAMILY

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Robert E. Brown, who passed away May 4, 1949.
God saw the road was getting rough,
The hills were hard to climb;
He gently closed his loving eyes
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
His weary hours, his days of pain,
His weary nights are past;
His ever patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
Sadly missed by his loving wife, Abbie; Sons, George, Benjamin, Claude, Jack; Daughters, Marie and Airetta

Harry C. Byrd To Try Again For Governor

Makes Surprise Announcement

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP) — The Baltimore Sun says Harry C. Byrd, defeated for governor two years ago, will try again for the post in 1958.

The Sun quoted a statement from the former University of Maryland president that his surprise announcement was "not made with the primary purpose" of helping Millard E. Tydings win the party's senatorial nominaiion in next Monday's balloting, but added, "I shall be very glad if it has that effect."

Action Unprecedented

The statement given The Sun said:

"Coming out as a candidate for governor more than two years in advance of the election is unprecedented. However, there has apparently been some attempt to indicate that I have retired from public life, and, therefore, it seems pertinent that I make known my intentions and aspirations.

"No, this announcement is not made with the primary purpose of helping the Tydings campaign, although I shall be very glad if it has that effect. Instead, it expresses definitely and finally how confident I am that the governorship is not being fought out in this senatorial primary."

It said he was not being influenced "in any way" by the outcome next Monday of the primary battle between Millard E. Tydings and George P. Mahoney for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

"The one basic fact actuating this statement," it went on, "is that I have decided to ask the Democratic party to give me the opportunity to represent it again. I believe, in the light of circumstances that existed two years ago, I deserve such an opportunity and am hopeful that a majority of the Democratic voters think likewise."

"No Deals"

Byrd defeated Mahoney for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1954 and was defeated in the general election by Gov. McKeldin, 381,451 votes to 319,033.

The statement added:

"No attempt has been made to line up support. No deal has been made, and none will be. Practically, such deals have little, if any, political value. Further, I would not thus cast a reflection on the integrity and intelligence of large groups of people by inferring that they would sacrifice their right to vote as they think. . . .

"If elected to public office, I intend to be free of any kind of obligation that might prevent me doing an efficient and economical job."

Byrd, Tydings, Mahoney and Brooke Lee, Byrd's campaign manager in 1954, were unavailable for comment.

Mrs. Maryland Leaves

Carl C. Robbins, district manager for the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company, hands an orchid to Mrs. W. Ardell Haines of LaVale as she boards a plane here yesterday to fly to Ellinor Village, Florida, for the Mrs. America homemaking contest. Her husband, Dr. Haines, principal of Bruce High School at Westernport, accompanied her, but son Gordon stayed behind because of school. Winner of the contest will be announced next Saturday night, May 12.

Three Rival Democratic Candidates For Senate Continue Campaign Rounds

Tydings May Have Money Troubles

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP)—The Baltimore Sun says that "financial troubles in campaign headquarters (has) stirred an incipient revolt among strong groups supporting Millard E. Tydings in Baltimore City."

The Sun, in its editions for tomorrow, adds that the development "opened the possibility that it will have great bearing in his contest with George P. Mahoney for the Democratic senatorial nomination."

The Sun came out last Sunday in support of Tydings' campaign for the nomination.

In an article by Charles G. Whiteford, the Sun says:

"Every precinct in the city had been organized by the coalition of city leaders supporting Mr. Tydings.

"Hundreds of workers were prepared to man the 531 polling places. They had been promised the usual 'precinct money' by their leaders, who, in turn, said they thought they had commitments from Tydings headquarters for the necessary cash."

As of tonight, The Sun says, "that money was not forthcoming. And one source close to the situation said there is no indication that it will be."

Whiteford said the sum involved was about $35,000. He quoted Tydings as saying, "I believe you'll find that this will work itself out." And he quoted a city leader as saying: "It could mean that he will have to release our workers. You can't promise them something and renege—and then stay in business."

Tydings headquarters reportedly guaranteed to mail sample ballots out to city voters, which would cost about $15,000.

Some money was raised last Monday at a $100-a-plate dinner for Tydings. The exact total was not disclosed.

Mahoney Would Fight Appeasement Of Reds

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP)—George P. Mahoney today promised "vigorous opposition to any appeasement of Communism" if he is elected to the U.S. Senate next fall.

The Democratic candidate for the senatorial nomination made the remark before visiting a shoe plant in Harford County, the home ground of his principal opponent, Millard E. Tydings.

"We have allowed ourselves to be painted as defenders of colonialism in Asia and Africa," he said in a statement. "The irony of the situation is that the nation responsible for spreading this slander against us is the Soviet Union, the greatest colonial power of modern times.

"Our United Nations delegates should not let a day go by without giving the world a reminder that the Soviet Union has converted millions of free people into 'colonials' and keeps them in slavery.

"These peoples' will to resist must be kept alive. They must be reassured that they have friends on this side of the Iron Curtain, exerting all the moral force we can on the side of justice and international decency."

The Baltimore County contractor kept up his tireless rounds throughout the day. During the afternoon he shook hands and chatted with employes of the Beta Shoe Co., at Belcamp, Harford County, then returned to Baltimore to appear at rallies in the first and second districts.

Williams Opposes Any Immigration Increase

BALTIMORE, May 3 (AP) — George Washington Williams said today he is opposed to any tampering with quotas under the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act. Bringing in a large number of immigrants, he said, would be "building up a potential unemployed list."

Williams aired his views in a campaign statement in behalf of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate.

He noted that two of his opponents, George P. Mahoney and Millard E. Tydings, had advocated a shift in the quota base from 1920 to 1950. He added:

"I noted in the public press of a few days ago a reference to world over-population. I find, however, no obligation on our part to absorb over-population or any elements which would be calculated to eventually over-populate this country.

"Many city areas are already over-populated and are potential menaces to our future."

"There is a constant evasion of the McCarran-Walter immigration Act by special legislation and other means. When dealing with immigration, the large number of illegals in here, to say nothing of the constant stream of Puerto Ricans, is ignored.

"By bringing in a large number of immigrants, we are building up this potential future unemployed list. It is high time, therefore, that we should consider our own interest as being dominate rather than the needs of others."

District Scout Roundtable Is Slated Tuesday

A Nemacolin District program roundtable will be held Tuesday, May 8, at 7:30 p. m. at Frostburg State Teachers College, according to Miles G. Thompson, district commissioner.

Invitations to attend the meeting, which will be held in Compton Hall (auditorium-gymnasium) are being sent to Cub leaders, Scout leaders and Explorer advisors.

Roundtable planners, Thompson said, will present the "new look" in programs for June, July and August.

The business session of the roundtable will be in three divisions.

Program Planned

The program for Cubbers, in charge of assistant district commissioners Francis Richardson, Frostburg, and Estel Oster, Cumberland, will include:

Opening ceremony, roping demonstration, trick shooting, sample cowboy costumes for Cubs to make, one and two-Cub horse, sample branding iron, songs, demonstration land ship, lighthouse, sample breeches buoy, bean bag targets, hoop relay, games, tricks, puzzles and a closing ceremony.

William Allee and Herbert Lehr, assistant district commissioners, of Cumberland, will be in charge of the program for Scouters.

To Serve Refreshments

It will include an opening ceremony, demonstration and practice of back-pressure-arm-lift artificial respiration, demonstration of pineapple rescue line, relay game, suggestions on getting ready for summer camp, poison game, August rally information, and closing exercises.

For Explorer advisors, Assistant District Commissioner Fern Kenney has prepared a program which includes opening and closing exercises, hints on program planning, an idea exchange, tour information and blue ribbon ideas for Explorers.

Refreshments will be served after the unit meetings.

Property Sold

Nellie V. Betz has sold property on the northeast side of West Main Street in Frostburg to William B. Byers and Helen B. Byers, according to a deed filed for record in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Flintstone Alumni Will Meet Tonight

The Flintstone High School Alumni Association will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the school to make plans for a banquet.

Martin M. Gordon, association president, said the organization wishes to reactivate with a banquet for the entire alumni group on Saturday, June 9.

Boys Club To Be Rededicated Today

The Corriganville Boys Club will hold rededication ceremonies at 6 p.m. today at the town ball park, just before a 6:15 p.m. softball game between Corriganville and Potomac Valley.

There will be refreshments, and a guest speaker is scheduled for the rededication. The club was recently reorganized after having been dormant for several years.

Optimist Broom Sale Deferred To Tuesday

The Cumberland Optimist Club sale of brooms in the West Side, postponed Wednesday night because of rain, will be resumed on Tuesday night, according to David L. Miller, president.

Carl Winfield is chairman of the project. Brooms were sold on a house-to-house basis in the North End Tuesday night.

Missionary To Speak

Rev. Charles Baldwin, a missionary for several years in the Church of the Brethren mission in Nigeria, Africa, will speak at Living Stone Church of the Brethren at 8 p. m. today.

Women Make Best Use Of Vote Machine

People are making good use of the demonstration voting machine placed in the rotunda of City Hall, according to Mayor Ro·· W. Eves.

He said 97 persons, half of them women, had tried out the machine by 4 p. m. yesterday.

It is a regulation machine and is set up exactly as it will be in Monday's primary election, except for the names of candidates.

Those who use the device, he said, are amazed at the simplicity of operation.

Instructions are being offered to all comers by members of the City Hall staff. It will be manned by volunteer workers from the Municipal Workers Union on their off-time Saturday.

Mayor Eves said the voting machine was provided by the Board of Election Supervisors at the request of city workers, who wanted advance instructions on its use.

It will be available to all today and tomorrow.

Lewis Is Improved

William Lewis, 54, of 18 South Mechanic Street, is reported "somewhat improved" at Sacred Heart Hospital. Lewis was badly injured in an automobile accident early Monday morning on West Virginia Route 28 at Short Gap.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Molinari, Washington, announce the birth of twin daughters Wednesday. The mother is the former Miss Mary Lou Kauffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murvel Kauffman, 634 Fairview Avenue.

Garrett Countians Visit New School

A number of Garrett County officials and interested parents visited the new Parkside Elementary School in LaVale to decide whether they would like to incorporate some of the new construction ideas in a school to be built west of Grantsville.

Superintendent of Schools Willard L. Hawkins and several of the county commissioners, along with 25 to 30 other Garrett County PTA members, visited the new school. Its features were explained by Allegany County's superintendent of schools, Ralph R. Webster, and Miss Margaret Doak, principal of the school.

Defendant Wins Damage Suit In Court Here

Injuries Sustained On Polish Mountain

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury deliberated about 30 minutes yesterday before returning a verdict in favor of the defendant, Mrs. Genevieve Yonkers Schaffer of Polish Mountain, in a $10,000 damage suit filed against her by Orville G. Shank of Boonsboro in Washington County.

Shank, the father of 10 children, brought the suit for injuries he sustained about 2 a.m. last October 1 when he fell off a porch or loading platform at the Alpine Lookout, an inn atop Polish Mountain which Mrs. Schaffer operates.

Shank and a friend, Leroy Kline, testified that they had several beers the evening of September 30 in Hagerstown and decided to drive a hitch-hiking sailor whom they did not know to Cumberland. It was during this trip that they stopped on Polish Mountain for some coffee.

Photographs taken of the inn which were introduced as evidence showed that there are two doors along the east side of the frame building. Shank, Kline and the sailor used the front door to enter the building but Shank left by the rear door, as had the sailor.

Albert A. Doub and Leslie J. Clark, Shank's attorneys, contended that Mrs. Schaffer and her employes were negligent in not having a railing on the porch and not warning him when he opened the screen door on a dark and foggy night.

Walter C. Capper and Thomas N. Berry, Mrs. Schaffer's counsel, argued that a store owner does not completely insure the safety of all persons entering his premises. They contended that the beer Shank had been drinking earlier had confused him.

Other witnesses at the all-day trial were Dr. Louis Brings, Dr. Emmett Jones, both of whom examined Shank at Sacred Heart Hospital, Mrs. Shank, Mrs. Schaffer, Carlson Fletcher, who worked at the inn, Police Officer Roy C. Hawse, who stopped Kline as he was driving Shank's car in Cumberland after the accident, and State Trooper Linwood C. Clark, who questioned Shank at the hospital.

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris presided at the trial. Earl C. Kalbaugh was foreman of the jury of six men and six women.

Social Security Vote Planned For Teachers

A referendum of Social Security coverage for Allegany County public school teachers will be conducted sometime between June 1 and June 6, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Only teachers who are now enrolled in the State Teachers Retirement System will be eligible to vote on whether or not they want Social Security coverage in addition to their retirement benefits. It will not affect their rights in the Teachers Retirement System.

If the referendum carries by a simple majority all teachers will be included whether or not they now are in the retirement system.

Webster said the ballots will be cast at the schools.

There also will be a referendum for other employes of the County Board of Education such as janitors and cafeteria workers but that will not be held until about the middle of July.

If approved, Social Security deductions will be taken from all salaries received after July 1.

331 Apply For Food

The Associated Charities has taken 331 applications this week for surplus foods to be distributed in June, according to Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary.

Author-Clergyman Will Address Episcopalians

Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Lowry, chairman and executive director of the Foundation for Religious Action in the Social and Civil Order, will speak at a meeting of the members of Emmanuel Episcopal Church following a buffet supper at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday.

This foundation was established in 1953 as an independent, nonsectarian, educational organization devoted solely within its prescribed field to the advancement of the common good. Its distinctive feature is that it brings together high level representatives, lay and clerical, of the major faiths of America, Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and Eastern (Greek) Orthodox.

Dr. Lowry formerly was rector of All Saints Episcopal Church in Chevy Chase.

Emmanuel Guild, sponsor of the program, is inviting all members of the parish, especially the Men of Emmanuel, to join in this meeting.

Dr. Lowry will talk on "Christ and Communism," the same title as the book he wrote which has been regarded as one of the most expert analyses presented. It emphasizes the challenge of Communism to Christianity.

Reservations are to be made by calling Mrs. S. C. Thom at PA 4-3267.

St. Anne's Circle will prepare the supper.

DR. C. W. LOWRY

Fewer State Demo Voters On Registers

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 3 (AP)—There are fewer Democrats registered in Maryland now than in 1954, the Secretary of State reported today. But they still outnumber Republicans by more than 2 to 1.

Figures supplied by James P. Brock, assistant to the secretary, showed 752,500 Democrats and 316,916 Republicans eligible to vote in the primaries next Monday.

This showed a net loss of 15,362 Democrats and a gain of 739 Republicans since the 1954 general election.

Despite the overall gain, the number of Republicans in Baltimore City, traditional Democratic stronghold, slipped from 81,290 to 79,215. The Democratic city loss was even greater—down from 313,742 to 282,318.

Baltimore City and some counties completed a new registration period for voters four weeks ago. The rest of the counties, which do not have a permanent registration system, had until April 24.

The lateness of this date, plus complications developing from the installation of voting machines in many counties for the first time, held up the new registration figures, Brock said.

The breakdown of the registration by counties includes:

	Rep.	Demo.
Allegany	21,618	16,319
Carroll	8,593	10,181
Frederick	11,896	14,990
Garrett	6,135	3,673
Montgomery	37,926	56,965
Washington	15,456	20,092

Young Meningitis Victim Improves

Calvin Slonaker, 9, of Capon Bridge, who is suffering from meningitis, continues to improve at Winchester (Va.) Memorial Hospital where he was admitted on Tuesday.

As a result of his illness the elementary school at Capon Bridge was ordered closed for a week. Some 125 pupils, and about 25 other persons have been ordered isolated.

Hargreaves To Relate Industrial Story

Albert H. Hargreaves, director of industrial development for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, and Clifford Swenson, a member of the staff of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, will be among the speakers at the spring meeting of the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin in Martinsburg, W. Va., May 25.

John I. Rogers, Keyser, chairman, will open the meeting on water management in industry and industrial wastes disposal at 10 a. m.

Hargreaves will present an address on industrial development of the Potomac River basin.

Swenson To Speak

Swenson's speech on the influence of water in industrial site selection will follow.

The company recently applied to the Maryland Water Resources Board for a permit to draw water from the Potomac River for the $34,000,000 plate glass plant it is completing at North Branch.

It plans to use an average of 1,820,000 gallons of water daily for cooling and for manufacturing processes in the world's most modern plate glass plant.

Col. Ray Adams, Washington district engineer for the Corps of Engineers, will close the morning session with a report on the scope of the current survey of the North Branch of the Potomac.

The survey is expected to lead to proposals for dams and other measures to reduce flood hazards and increase the resources of the river in this area.

To Discuss Reactor

Joseph Liebeman and William Hepburn, of the Atomic Energy Commission, will discuss the Army package power reactor at Fort Belvoir, Va., during the luncheon meeting.

Julian G. Patrick, chief chemist for the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, will lead a panel discussion in the afternoon on industrial cooperation in the four Potomac River basin states.

City Voting Rolls Rise To 12,795 Mark

Registration rolls of the City of Cumberland rose 18 for a total of 12,795 voters last month, according to Mrs. Ruth Mangus, registration clerk.

A total of 24 new voters, including nine white males, 12 white females, two colored males and one colored female, were registered during April.

It was a good registration record, compared to early months of the year, but 10 fewer than were placed on the books in March.

Stricken from the books were the names of seven voters who died recently.

One change in registration records was made and one name removed in error was placed back on the list of eligible voters.

Registered for city elections — the next regular municipal election is scheduled in 1958—are: are:

White male, 6,649; white female, 5,901; colored male, 154, and colored female, 91, for a total of 12,795.

There were 15,070 voters registered for the June 1954 municipal elections.

Since then, the records have been shaken down to near bedrock by the removal of names of voters who failed to cast ballots during a five-year period.

The unit moved into the new barracks this week and at the same time instituted around-the-clock operations. The barracks provides quarters for 21 troopers.
